Champoux seeks re-election and most rewarding event in the last three years was the successful vote of the high school," Champoux said.

The passing vote of the new high school building project was not the only item on Champoux's agenda. He told the Crier when he was first elected in 2009 that his goal was to instill a sense of professionalism at the Board of Selectmen meetings, which has not always been prevalent, he said.

"I support open dialogue that allows us to have a difference of opinions without things becoming confrontational," Champoux said. "We may not agree on everything but we are very respectful of one another, and it will continue that way."

He said he received the best piece of advice during his campaign in 2009 when someone told him, "Use your mouth and ears proportionately: Listen twice as much as you speak." Champoux said it took him the majority of the first year to understand his role on the board and find his voice.

"That left me two years," Champoux said. "And I feel very confident and proud of the fact that over the last two years I have used that voice in a productive way. I want to continue to be a member of the board and be a value to the Town."

If re-elected, Champoux will see Town Manager Cairra retire and the Board of Selectmen will hire a new manager over the summer.

"I don't want to say goodbye to Mr. Cairra," Champoux said. "I believe that his tenure as Town Manager is largely why Wilmington is in such good financial shape and why we have been able to achieve what we have achieved as a community."

The good part, Champoux said, is that he will be a member of the Board of Selectmen "at a unique time when we get to chart the course of the future of Wilmington." He said he is very excited to be a part of the team that will identify and hire the next Town Manager.

Going forward, if he is re-elected, Champoux said he looks forward to the successful, on time opening of the new Wilmington High School in 2014. He also hopes to continue the high level of services to residents without burdensome fees and to keep the tax rates competitive and some of the lowest in the region.

"I currently hold the Town Manager's feet to the fire on that one, and I intend to continue doing so," Champoux said.

approximately $85 million.

Phase two will include the widening of I-93 to four lanes beginning where Phase one left off at 495 up to the Pelham Street interchange in Methuen, which will cost approximately $71 million. Finally, Phase three will widen I-93 from the Pelham Street interchange to the New Hampshire state line, which is estimated to cost $21 million.

This three-step breakdown of the project will also make funding more obtainable if the task force seeks funding for each phase separately according to Hamilton's presentation.

As is well known, the project has run into many roadblocks, funding is simply the newest hurdle. Hamilton said that they are in a bit of a catch 22 loop in that the Federal Highway Administration will not review the project until some sort of funding has been secured, but funding is difficult to secure without the federal review.

Wilmington, Tewksbury and Andover are interested in the development opportunities that will come with the new interchange, slated to be built between exits 41 and 42. However, the task force has made no headway on the plans for zoning the new development. They are looking at the effects of mixed-use centers and the potential of a train stop near the interchange.

"With each election season, hot buttons change. So it is hard to keep this [project] in the forefront," Hamilton said. But "it is a once in a lifetime opportunity. Very few communities get over 700 acres to develop. It will help shape the future."

Selectman Mike Champoux, who serves on Wilmington's delegation to the Tri-Town Task Force, added, "It would be a good job boom when 'job' is a buzz word."

School Committee Trims $600K from budget anywhere. This project will also allow middle school students to have a "seamless transition" to the new high school that will be equipped with a wireless network and devices for students.

"We are hoping to move toward a 21st century curriculum by enabling innovative learning methods that integrate the use of supportive technologies," Benton said.

Benton said the revised budget request will allow the school district to continue providing many of the current services that residents have come to expect from the Wilmington School District.

The high school may also be undergoing a few changes in curriculum and classes. Principal Eric Tracy presented a list of changes that will take place at the high school during the 2012-2013 school year.

Tracy suggested that the Computer Applications class be eliminated.

"The kids already know more than we can teach them," Tracy said. "They have the skills, now it is up to us to take those and apply them."

Tracy said the Masterpieces of Literature class should be dropped because of a lack of interest from students. The Creative Writing class could become a single-semester class. Tracy said the students' creative juices were running out in the second semester.

Because many students were unable to keep up with the Italian III course at the sophomore level, Tracy suggests closing the course to sophomores.

School Committee Member Mario Marchese expressed concern with this decision stating that current 6th graders are being offered Italian and will be sophomores at the high school when they reach the Italian III level. Tracy and the school committee decided the issue will be readressed as necessary.

Tracy requested one new course to be offered at the high school: Engineering Design.

Tracy proposed a new internship program to be spearheaded by Tracy and Assistant Principals

Deborah Deacon and Dennis Mahoney

"It will allow our kids to dip into the real world," Tracy said.

The program would allow high school seniors to work as an intern in the field of their choice during the last quarter of the year. The school plans on having direct and frequent contact with the businesses involved and will ask them to assess and report on students' progress. Students would be required to write essays and other reports throughout the internship on top of all normal school and internship duties.

Maguire honored at local restaurant

Update on case

Woburn Daily Times

WOBURN - The Woburn Public Library is proud to have been chosen to be a part of Applebee's "Dining to Donate" Wall of Honor Weekend.

Library officials, fellow officers, and family gathered at Applebee's in Woburn as their long-weekend fundraiser began

Friday at 3 p.m. when they unveiled Applebee's Wall of Honor, dedicated to fallen Woburn Police Officer, John B. "Jack" Maguire. The fundraiser continued through Monday, January 16.

For those presenting a coupon to their server, Applebee's donated a percentage of the sales from the meal, in Jack's memory, to the Woburn Public Library and to the New England Chapter C.O.P.S. Organization (Concerns of Police Survivors).

Update on the Maguire Case

Last week, the three suspects in the Officer John Maguire shooting case, Newburyport's Arthur Cinelli, 50, the brother of Dominic Cinelli, the career criminal who murdered Maguire; Wakefield resident Scott Hanright, 19; and 51-year-old Devin Dingwell, also of Wakefield, all had their court cases continued.

Both Cinelli and Hanright have pled not guilty to murder, masked armed robbery, firearm violations, and other charges.

Cinelli, who wasn't at the scene, is accused of helping his brother plot the armed robbery, while Hanright reportedly acted as a look out while Dominic Cinelli held-up employees in Kohl's at gunpoint.

Dingwell, accused of trying to pick-up Hanright from the scene after the jewelry robbery was botched, has been indicted for accessory after the fact of robbery and willfully misleading a police officer.

Cinelli and Hanright are scheduled to appear again in court on February 29 at 2 p.m. for an evidentiary suppression hearing. Dingwell's next court date is March 13, also at 2 p.m., when a status review of his case is planned.

Maguire, who was honored at a ceremony near Kohl's late last month on the anniversary of his death, encountered 57-year-old Dominic Cinelli, just paroled despite having been sentenced to three lifetime prison terms, while responding to a jewelry robbery at Kohl's department store during the height of a blizzard on Dec. 26, 2010.

Blocking Cinelli's path to a largely residential section of the city, Maguire was critically wounded in an exchange of gunfire with the lifelong criminal.

But before Cinelli could escape, the mortally injured Maguire squeezed off one last round from his service weapon, the first time the veteran patrolman of 34 years had ever discharged his gun in the line of duty, and downed the suspect, who would later be pronounced dead at the scene.

Letters to the editor

Open letter to Tewksbury residents from Rep. Adams

Dear friends and constituents of the 17th Essex District,

I am pleased to report that after more than a year of cooperation with the Office of Campaign and Political Finance (OCPF), my political committee, members of my family, and I have reached a final resolution with OCPE regarding its year-long review of three family gifts made to me by three immediate family members, all in compliance with applicable federal IRS regulations, before I became a candidate for State Representative.

The OCPE inquiry began shortly after you elected me to be your State Representative in November of 2010.

Responding to an as-yet unidentified complainant, OCPE commenced a year-long review of my political committee, the duration of which itself attested to the difficulty of interpreting the vague and overly-broad definition of "contribution" contained in the Commonwealth's highly complex and technical campaign finance law (M.G.L. c. 55) in the context of gifts from immediate family members.

My committee's case presented a novel question of law previously unaddressed by OCPE and one that most candidates, and certainly I as a first-time candidate, could hardly have anticipated: how gifts made to me by my parents and brother are to be treated under the Massachusetts campaign finance law.

I believed, reasonably I think, that the family gifts from my parents and brother were my money. From this it followed, as the night the day, that I could do with them as I wished. I chose to loan a portion of them to my campaign. In doing so, there was absolutely no effort made to "disguise" their source. Indeed, OCPE's own conclusions acknowledge that to the extent that the family gifts found their way into the campaign, they were reported by my campaign as loans from me.

While reasonable minds can and did differ on how to interpret the facts and the law involved, I am pleased that we were able to resolve our differences by entering into a "Disposition Agreement," the most benign level of resolution. This agreement enabled us to make a nominal civil payment, allowing both sides, in the interests of practicality and economy, to move on.

It is my hope that the successful resolution of this case, the first of its type, will provide guidance in the future to other similarly situated candidates whose immediate family members might be contemplating making gifts to them for their personal maintenance and support.

Again, I am grateful and humbled every day to serve as the voice of the 17th Essex House District, and I look forward to continuing to serve as your fearless representative on Beacon Hill.

Best regards,

Paul Adams

Acts of Kindness

by Jomarie O'Mahony

Happy New Year!

If you are like me, you are already trying to find loopholes for those New Year's resolutions! However, this is the year! I train at the Academy of Traditional Karate and every January we create new goals for ourselves. I suggest everyone should do this for yourself, individually, as well as with your family. What better way to keep positive than to be able to check something off of your "to-do" list that you have been avoiding.

And, of course, I expect you will add something charitable and community service based to your list of gals! Could this be the year that you find something you can give an hour or two volunteering for each month? Or, maybe you work with your children to create a "zero waste day" in your house where you go from room to room, gathering items you do not need, use or wear anymore, and then spending time together finding local organizations that will gladly accept these items! (or, you can drop them off at any of the scheduled WOW drives at Villanova Hall and we will pass them along for you!) Maybe this is the year you will learn more about an organization or cause that you have been interested in but never took the time to learn more about.

This month marks the 20th anniversary of the Wilmington Food Pantry. Why not organize a neighborhood food drive or write a thank you note to Bob DiPalma and his volunteers, thanking them for all that they do in providing this wonderful service to our residents (you can email me any letters or mail them to me at P.O. Box 455, Wilmington, MA 01887 and I will make sure he receives them)

There are so many things that can happen this year and it is so exciting to think of the endless possibilities! I hope you treat each minute as a precious commodity, find time each day for yourself and your family, and accomplish more in 2012 than you imagined possible!

And, please, never think that the little things don't matter. As Aesop said, "No act of kindness, no matter how small...is ever wasted."

As always, please email me any questions, comments, suggestions to Jomarie0525@yahoo.com.

Happy New Year and make every minute count!

Senator Tarr renews call for passage of EBT bill

BOSTON - Senate Minority Leader Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) last week renewed his call for the passage of legislation regulating the use of Electronic Benefits Transfer (EBT) cards.

Tarr is the lead sponsor of Senate Bill 68, An Act Preventing the Misuse of Public Funds, which was the subject of a public hearing before the Joint Committee on Children, Families and Persons with Disabilities today. The bill, which was filed in January of 2010, makes it illegal to use an EBT card to purchase alcoholic beverages, tobacco or Lottery products and imposes a combination of fines and possible jail time for store owners and employees who accept EBT cards as payment for these purchases.

In a letter hand-delivered to the committee, Tarr acknowledged that many of the provisions contained in his bill were signed into law last summer as a result of a budget amendment he sponsored. However, he urged the committee to take further action, noting that "it is important that we continue to forge ahead to implement stronger oversight measures within the EBT system to ensure that the abuses that have already taken place do not continue to occur."

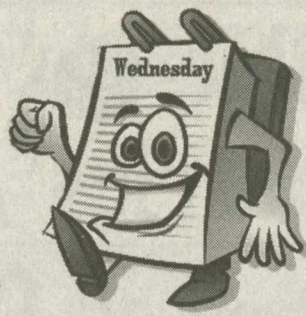

"State oversight of the EBT program has been far too lax, and has allowed recipients to manipulate the system at the expense of the taxpayers who fund these benefits," Tarr wrote. "Published reports continue to provide examples of the types of abuses that we are trying to prevent and prove that our work is far from finished. We owe it to the residents of Massachusetts to take steps to ensure that EBT cards are being used strictly for authorized purchases, and to punish those who try to take advantage of the system."

The problems associated with the EBT program first came to light more than a year ago, following published reports of recipients using their EBT cards to withdraw money and purchase non-food items that were never meant to be included in the taxpayer-funded program. Just last month, eight people were arrested in Lynn on charges of EBT fraud after undercover police officers were able to obtain cash with their EBT cards and purchase drugs, including crack and heroin.

While the current law requires EBT recipients to reimburse the Department of Transitional Assistance (DTA) for any illegal purchases, Tarr's bill goes a step further by allowing the DTA Commissioner to disqualify individuals who break the law from obtaining future EBT benefits. Tarr's bill also requires the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission and the state Lottery Commission, in consultation with the DTA, to inform recipients of the penalties associated with using EBT cards for illegal purchases and to post this information on their websites.

PATRIOTIC PALS TAILS OF THE CIVIL WAR

By Chris Stuckenschneider

CHAPTER 1: Chat with Chuck

Shake my paw—pleased to meet your acquaintance. The name's Charles Tyler Bundebar, but you can call me Chuck.

My pal Walt and I share a rambling two-story in a riverside Missouri town, a house with a wide front porch, great for tail thumpin' and enjoying tall glasses of lemonade.

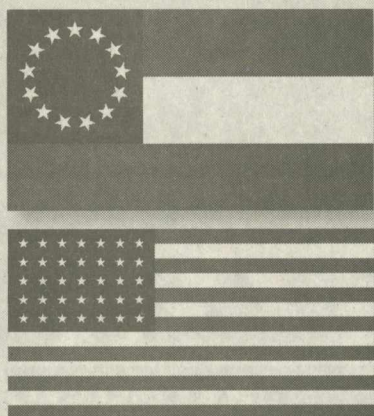

Just lately, the master and I've been out there a lot, Walt reading and recollecting facts in a journal he's keeping on the Civil War. Walt's a true-blue reenactor, outfitted like a Union soldier, complete with a Springfield rifle, flat-topped cap with a badge, and me by his side, a black and white Border Collie, which is entirely fitting because Missouri was a Border state.

I'll fill you in about that Border state business later, along with other tidbits I've picked up visiting battle sites with Walt and meeting folks who make history come alive, which is what I hope to do for you.

So gather round the campfire, share a bite of Johnny Cake and listen up, cause you're about to hear some stuff that's doggone extraordinary—tales about man's best friend during the Civil War, canine mascots, fetching hounds that astound.

The stories I'm about to relate are brimming with turncoats and heroes, mayhem and miracles, plenty of rowdy excitement, and not one whit of sappy romance. Let's kick the story off right, and if I fail to deliver, you can cut my rations down to Pekingese portions.

FLAGS OF THE CIVIL WAR

"The Stars and Bars" (top) was the official flag of the Confederacy from March 5, 1862, to May 26, 1863. It first appeared with seven stars, then nine, 11, and finally 13, to indicate the number of states in the Confederacy. The Confederacy claimed Kentucky and Missouri, but they were never actually in the Confederacy.

The second flag is the United States flag and was in use from July 4, 1863 to July, 1865. There were six official flags in use during the Civil War, but the 35-star flag is the one most recognized. Each star represents a state in the Union.

The Civil War (1861-1865) was a four-year tragedy, a dog-eat-dog war that divided our country and forced neighbor to fight against neighbor. It began for a number of reasons, one of which concerned slavery. Some states thought it fitting to own slaves while others believed the practice should be "abolished," which is a fancy way of saying "va-moosed," and doesn't refer to a moose away at Scout camp or a mouse in the past-present tense twice removed. Ruff!

Initially, the pro-slavery states acted like a bunch of kids in a scrap. They thumbed their noses at the Union and seceded, broke away to establish a new country, the Confederate States of America. This wasn't something our just-elected President, Abraham Lincoln, took kindly to.

Honest Abe felt this was kind of rebellious of the South—and that's how I remember the Rebels made up the Confederacy. The rest of the states were "unified," which means they were all chummy with each other. These states stayed in the United States of America as one Union.

Trust you now have a better understanding of the primary reason for the war—and can identify the two sides that did battle. With that we'll set our story aside for a bit. Enough yapping, I need a quick bite to sustain life, and a nap next to Walt's creaky rocker.

Hope you'll tune in for the next chapter. You're sure to lap up the tale passed down through the years by the family of Sergeant Dick, a mascot of the St. Louis Grays. That pooch weathered quite a time in St. Louis in 1861, just a month after the first cannons fired on Fort Sumter in South Carolina.

Lots of people have heard about Camp Jackson, in St. Louis, but not many realize its importance. The incident determined that St. Louis, though in the slave state of Missouri, would remain loyal to the Union and continue to fly Old Glory.

Let's Hear it!!

Your Two Cents...

Yentile farm a great deal for the Town

What a bargain for the Town, being able to purchase the Yentile Farm property for basically half the price the Town offered several years ago. And whether or not it is used to add to athletic field space or other purposes, simply securing the property for the Town seems like a sound investment of "free cash" to me. This appears to be about as close to a "no brainer" as I have seen during my many years living in Wilmington. If it doesn't go through the approval process with nary a ripple I will be shocked.

Friday the 13th fish tale befouled I-93 45 years ago

By LARZ F. NEILSON

One of the strangest accidents that ever occurred in Wilmington took place on Friday the 13th of October, 1967. If the story were to be told at the annual meeting of a liars club, the teller would probably win first prize. But the story is true.

Wilmington for many years had to endure the odors of a cat food factory. The factory, originally located on Eames Street in Wilmington, was known as Murphy's. Residents of the neighborhood, sick of the odors, mounted an effort to drive the factory out of town.

Murphy, however, did not give up easily. He relocated his business to Woburn, only 50 yards over the Wilmington line. Woburn would get the taxes, and South Wilmington would still get the smell.

The cat food factory remained on New Boston

Street for some 50 years. The building is still there, but has been developed into some industrial offices.

In 1967, the cat food factory was run by Usen Canning Company. Every day, a large truck of fish scraps would come up Route 93, headed for Usen. The scraps came from the Boston Fish Pier and were the main ingredient used in making Tabby Cat Food. The load was a messy sort of liquid with various fish parts. The truck was not unlike a dump truck. The body was a large steel tub, leak proof, but open on the top.

At 6:45 p.m., truck driver Joseph Seville of Medford was in the second lane, headed north, approaching the Route 129 exit. Just before he went under the West Street bridge, he put his right directional signal on for a lane change. He began to ease the ten-ton truck into the right lane for the exit.

In his "blind spot" on the right was a little Volkswagen. The driver of the bug leaned on his horn and passed the truck on the right. Seville had to swerve sharply to the left to avoid the VW, which sped off into the gathering darkness.

It is one thing to change the direction of a VW, and entirely another matter to change the direction of a ten-ton truck. And if the truck happens to have a liquid load of ten tons of fish scraps, that load will not turn quickly. Those fish scraps slapped against the side of the truck like so much water, and the impact knocked the truck right over on its side. The fish scraps poured out all over the highway - ten tons of oily fish scraps, all over the north-bound lane of Route 93, right under the West Street

Headlights from passing cars show the sea of fish scraps on the pavement of Route 93 on Fri., Oct. 13, 1967. The dark line overhead is the West Street overpass. The rear wheels of the truck on it's side can be seen to the right of the car.

Both State and Wilmington police were soon on the scene, along with the Wilmington ambulance. Nobody was injured but the big truck had slid off the highway.

The only problem was the fish blocking all four north-bound lanes. And it was a problem.

Trooper Warren Bailey of the Massachusetts State Police called the Wilmington Fire Department and asked for a fire engine to hose down the highway. Lt. George Cushing pointed out that a mixture of fish oil and water is just about the slipperiest thing there is.

Bailey had to agree with Cushing. So instead, he called for snow removal equipment, from the Massachusetts Department of Public Works.

For 24 hours, the state trucks scattered sand on the highway, from the West Street bridge to the Route 62 interchange, five miles to the north.

Autos were able to make their way through the slithering pile of fish scraps, but then they left morsels of fish all along the superhighway. As fast as the pavement was sanded, it had to be sanded again. It was dangerous, driving along that highway, and many a motorist had a tale to tell when he got home, how the rear of the car just slid around.

It was the worst traffic tie-up in years on Route 93. The traffic jam extended over five miles to the south, beyond Route 128. State Police worked over three and a half hours to untangle it.

No one knows just how many secondary accidents occurred on that fish-slicked highway, but Trooper Bailey reported one four-car collision and three three-car accidents.

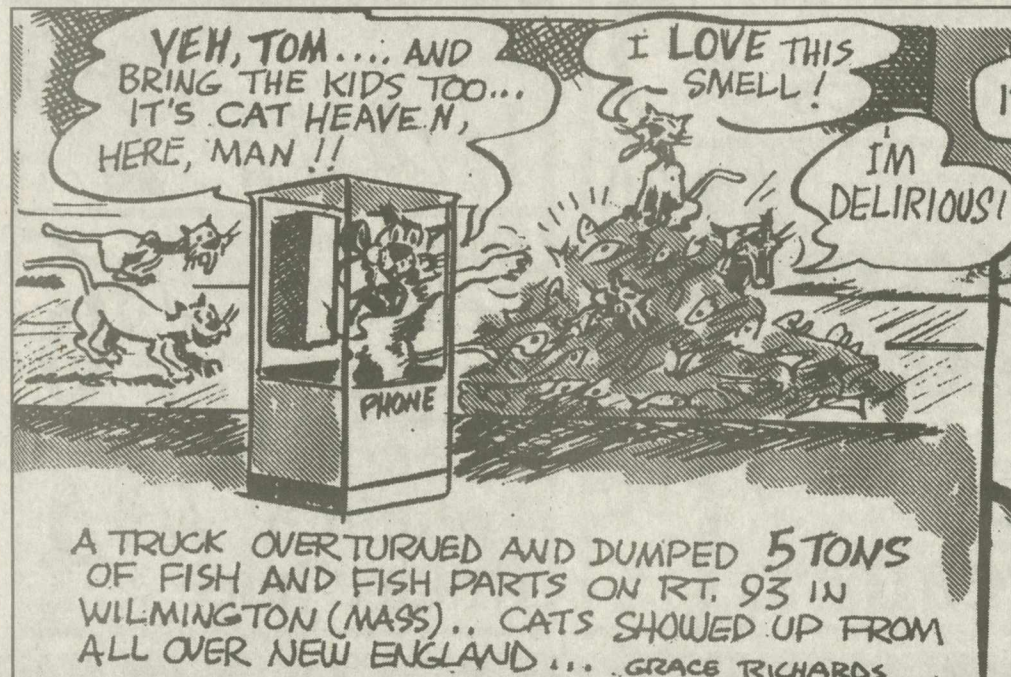

The two-car collisions - he just didn't know. There were, he said, at least 11, and probably a lot more. And one of those three-car accidents also involved a VW bug. It happened down near Route 128, five miles from the accident itself.

This bug didn't get away. It was caught right in the middle, right between two larger cars.

It was, one witness said, a perfect "bug sandwich."

Yankee Magazine later ran a cartoon on the accident in their "Yankee Tintinabulations" page.

It showed a cat in a phone booth, calling his friends. "Yeh, Tom, get down here ... and bring the kids too ... It's cat heaven here, man!" he said. "It's great!" It claimed the foul fish attracted cats from all over New England. Now, that would have qualified for the Liars Club prize.

This cartoon by Ev Sands appeared in the January 1968 issue of Yankee Magazine. Every month, Yankee would run a two-page spread, Yankee Tintinabulations, with humorous takes on New England news items.

Meagan Timmons joined Gov. Patrick, students across state for MLK day

Service across the Commonwealth with Project 351

BOSTON - Governor Deval Patrick and Lieutenant Governor Murray joined hundreds of eighth grade 'ambassadors' from across the Commonwealth on Saturday, January 14, 2012 for Project 351, a day of service and a celebration of the life and legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. For the second year, Project 351 "ambassadors" volunteered at social service organizations throughout the Boston area. Meagan Timmons of Tewksbury was named as an ambassador and joined in the day.

The ambassadors, chosen from the 351 cities and towns in Massachusetts, began the day with a Town Hall Meeting at the State House, hosted by the Governor and Lt. Governor. The eighth graders then spent the day volunteering at four locations which Governor Patrick and Lt. Governor Murray visited throughout the day. Each location featured a different service project designed specifically to enrich the community they serve.

Services sites included the MLK Towers in Roxbury where ambassadors painted murals of Dr. King and made fleece blankets for elderly residents and thank you packages for more than 100 residents; the Dorchester Boys and Girls Club where ambassadors painted the preschool and toddler room and a mural in the teen center, and made fleece blankets; the Greater Boston Food Bank where ambassadors packed bags of healthy snacks for children and bags of groceries for the elderly; and Cradles to Crayon in Brighton where ambassadors prepared packages of essentials for homeless and low-income children.

Audiology practice hires new staff

WAKEFIELD/WILMINGTON - Gwen Deevy, AuD, has joined the staff at Atlantic Audiology, Inc. Dr. Deevy earned her Doctorate in Audiology from Northeastern University in 2010. She has worked at the Veterans Administration and at Lahey Clinic in Burlington. "Today's hearing aid technology allows audiologists to fit more people with better hearing aids. Hearing aids now pair with cell phones, and TVs to give the wearer more freedom," reports Dr. Deevy.

The other new staff member is Melissa Goddard. Prior to beginning at Atlantic Audiology, Inc. Mrs. Goddard worked at Starkey Labs in Arlington for over 20 years. She is very familiar with hearing aids and their ability to improve the life of a wearer. "The changes in technology are amazing. Moving from completely analog technology into the digital world has allowed people with hearing loss to become more apart of their world. They are able to hear and understand

"Let's talk about hearing with Lolly Wigall." It is filmed at the Wakefield Cable Access Station (WCAT); every month, Lolly will send a copy to local cable stations. Check your local cable station to see if it is playing. If not, call the TV station and ask if they have received a copy.

The show is also on youtube.com. Search by the title of the show. The office is in the process of adding tags to the show to make it easier to find.

Libby Willis, the office's graduate audiology extern, recently announced her engagement and is planning an October 2012 wedding. Libby will graduate with her Doctorate degree in Audiology in May 2012.

Marion is enjoying spending time with her family and friends.

Pat is full time in the Wilmington office. She is a sports fan and is rooting for the Patriots to have a great season. She will be calling you to confirm your appointments and to let you know if it's time to schedule a clean and check of your hearing aid!

Sarah has taken a new job in Chelmsford. She has moved and this new job will cut her commute to a bare minimum and give her new experiences. We will stay in contact and the office is really happy for her. But they will miss her upbeat smile.

Lolly spent the holidays in California with her parents, and siblings.

Be sure to come in to get your hearing aids cleaned before the snow starts to fly.

If you come in after 10:00 a.m., we may not be able to see you immediately. But, you can drop off your hearing aids and the audiologist will check them during the day. We will call you back to let you know if we need to send them out for repair or if they just needed cleaned.

Come in anytime to pick up batteries, white tips, or domes. We are always happy to see you.

If you have noticed that you are not hearing as well as you used to, please schedule a hearing test. It is typical to have a complete evaluation every one to two years.

Hours are 8:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday. On Thursdays we are open until 7:00 p.m. On the second Saturday of each month we are open in Wakefield from 8:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

2012 annual town census is underway in Tewksbury

TEWKSBURY - Town Clerk, Denise Graffeo, would like to remind residents about the importance of returning the Annual Town Census form to the Town Clerk's Office, as soon as possible. Graffeo explains that a prompt and accurate census is very important.

The Census provides information to assure that the town receives its fair share of state and federal funds and grants. It is also used for calculating veterans' benefits, housing for the elderly and other related veterans and elderly benefits.

The census information serves to provide proof of residency to protect voting rights and to maintain the voting list, preventing needless delays at your voting precinct. Any previously registered voter who has not returned their 2012 Census will be added to the Inactive Voters List and therefore, by law, will be required to fill out an Affirmation of Current and Continuous Residence form and provide i.d. to prove continuous residency in the Town of Tewksbury.

The school census provides projection for future enrollments and related benefits which allows school administrators to apply for additional state and federal funds and grants.

It also allows college students to apply for lower tuition at all Massachusetts State Colleges and provides proof of residence. By law we can only certify that you live in Tewksbury if you are listed in the census records. Owning property is not used for proof of residency.

For the convenience of dog owners, you will find a dog registration form attached to the bottom of the census form. By state law, all dogs must be registered.

Your cooperation in returning the census as soon as possible will prevent us from having to do another costly mailing. If you are a new resident or if you do not received a census form, please notify the Town Clerk's Office at 978-640-4355.

Show me the money!

DPW takes on many projects in 2012

Finally, the DPW has a planning project that involves looking into cemetery expansion; although the Town owns more land around the cemetery, it is wetlands so it may be necessary to look for a new site.

Wilmington High's James Wilkinson tries to keep the ball in play during Tuesday night's tough non-league loss to Tewksbury in Boys Basketball action.

Redmen come up with a shocking victory over 'Cats

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

TEWKSBURY -- Leading by six points after the first quarter and leading by five points with four minutes to go, certainly seemed like more than a cushion against a team that Wilmington defeated less than a month ago by ten points. But then several costly turnovers and the combination of a red-hot outside shooter was enough for the Tewksbury Redmen to come up with a surprising 53-52 victory over Wilmington in a non-league boys hoop game played Tuesday night at TMHS.

Tewksbury senior Bobby Lumbard, who had a game high 21 points, sank his fifth three-pointer of the game with 12 seconds left, lifting Tewksbury to its fifth win of the season -- the same win total that Wilmington now has. The Redmen -- who had five combined wins in the past three seasons -- have now won four of its last five games under first-year head coach Phil Connors, while the Wildcats continue to bounce up and down all season long, now sitting at 5-5 through the halfway point of the season.

"We turned the ball over too many times in the fourth quarter which hurt us," said Wildcat head coach Joe Maiella. "(Tewksbury's Bobby) Lumbard and (Mike) Doucette made several real big three-pointers in the fourth quarter. We had them on the ropes. We were up by five points (with 4:26 to go) but the turnovers in the fourth quarter were just too costly. I don't know. This is tough to take. This is a game that we needed. We needed to get this game so this loss is really, really tough to take. Every loss impacts us. We're still tied for first place in the Middlesex League (small school division) but every loss (with our schedule) is huge. We're 5-5 at the half way point and this one is just really tough to take right now."

Wilmington jumped out to a 7-5 lead four minutes into the game and that extended to six points at 17-11 at the end of the first quarter. After Jamie Mara made it an eight point game with a jump shot 15 seconds into the second quarter, the Redmen totally outplayed Wilmington the rest of the second quarter, including outscoring the Wildcats 18-6 to go up by five points at 29-25 at the break.

Tewksbury extended its lead to eight points early in the third behind a trey from Lumbard and a free throw by Sean Foley. A minute later the lead was nine before Wilmington started to wake up a bit and show some energy. The Wildcats responded with a 16-4 run which began with a three-pointer from Cole Pepper, while several others contributed with buckets including Timmy McCarthy, John Parsons, James Wilkinson and Kyle Albanese, the latter who ended with a huge night with 19 points and 13 rebounds.

That 16-4 run gave Wilmington a three-point lead just 53 seconds into the fourth quarter. Tewksbury tied the game up at 43-43 with 5:36 left, before McCarthy converted on a trey and a lay-up giving Wilmington that five-point lead with 4:26 left. From there, Tewksbury's outside shooters started to hit the net, first three-pointer from Mike Doucette, and then Lumbard with 1:58 to go to tie the game up at 50. Albanese converted on a inside bucket with 40 seconds to go forcing Tewksbury to call a time out. The play was set up and Lumbard came off the right side, and drained a three-point swish with 16 seconds left giving Tewksbury the one-point lead. Tewksbury's Kevin Dick then made a defensive stop in the final few seconds to secure the win for the Redmen.

"They pressed us a little bit more and they played a little bit more zone (defense) than they did before, but they really didn't do much different than what they did against us the first time we played them," said Maiella. "But the bottom line is we should have never lost this game."

Albanese finished with his 19 points and 13 rebounds, while McCarthy was also in double figures with 14 points and he added six boards. Pepper had seven points.

On Friday, Wilmington defeated Wakefield 60-56 in a great contest. Wilmington had three players in double figures with McCarthy at 18, Wilkinson with a career high 16 and Albanese with 14 as those three players combined for 48 of the team's points. Wakefield came in with a 6-1 record.

Wilmington returns home for two games with Burlington on Friday and Belmont on Tuesday.

Hockey team defeats defending Div. 1 state champs

By JAMIE POTE

After struggling with overall consistency in the team's last three weeks, the Wilmington High School Boys Hockey team took a giant leap this past week, first defeating a solid Melrose club 6-3, before blanking the defending Division 1 state champion Wakefield Warriors, 3-0, on Saturday.

"To get four points this week was big," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "We got a little bit of a break (with a bye on Wednesday) so we're hoping we can recharge the batteries. It looks like on any given night in this league anyone can beat anyone. For us to beat Wakefield is a really, really big win. I thought we out-

Track teams fall to Wakefield

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The Wilmington High School Girls Track-and-Field team was defeated by Wakefield 50-31, in the team's final Middlesex League Meet of the season, last Thursday held at Lexington High School.

Wilmington had just three girls finish first in their respective event including Kelly Hartsough, Cali Pepper and Katie Richardson. Hartsough took the mile race, running the event for the first time this season, with a 5:53 clip. Pepper won the 300 with a time of 44.9 seconds, and Richardson was a big surprise winning the high jump with a personal best leap of 4-8.

Finishing with second places include Savannah Hubbard in the 45-yard hurdles (7.5), Rachel Alatalo in the 55-yard dash (6.1), Sydnee Russo in the 1,000 (3:29) and Keara MacCorkle in the two mile (13:29). Rounding out the scoring with third places include Kelsey Mangan in the 55-yard dash (6.4), Hristina Tasheva in the 300 (53.3), Richardson in the 1,000 and Nichole Lunt in the shot put, throwing 30-9.

Turning to the Boys Track team, they were also defeated by Wakefield, 48-38, to fall to 1-4 on the season.

"We were hampered due to injury and illness, but I am still very pleased with the progress and toughness of this young team," said head coach Mike Kinney.

Pat Barry had a big day for the Wildcats as he was first in both the 45-yard hurdles (6.5) and high jump (5-7), and was also the lead leg of the winning 4x400 relay team joining Eric Jaeschke, David Swider and Colin Chase, who finished with a combined time of 3:55. Eli Jennings was the only other individual winner as he took the shot put throwing 41-4.25. Finishing with second places include Connor Townsend in the 45-yard dash (5.5), Jaeschke in the 300 (40.7), Steve Halas in the 600 (1:30.6) and Swider in the mile (5:03).

Finally third places came from Jennings in the 45-yard dash (5.6), Erik Alatalo in the two mile (10:48.2), Andrew Fino in the 300 (41.7), Craig Smith in the 1,000 (3:09), Colin Chase in the high jump (5-1) and John Weaver in the shot put (35-0).

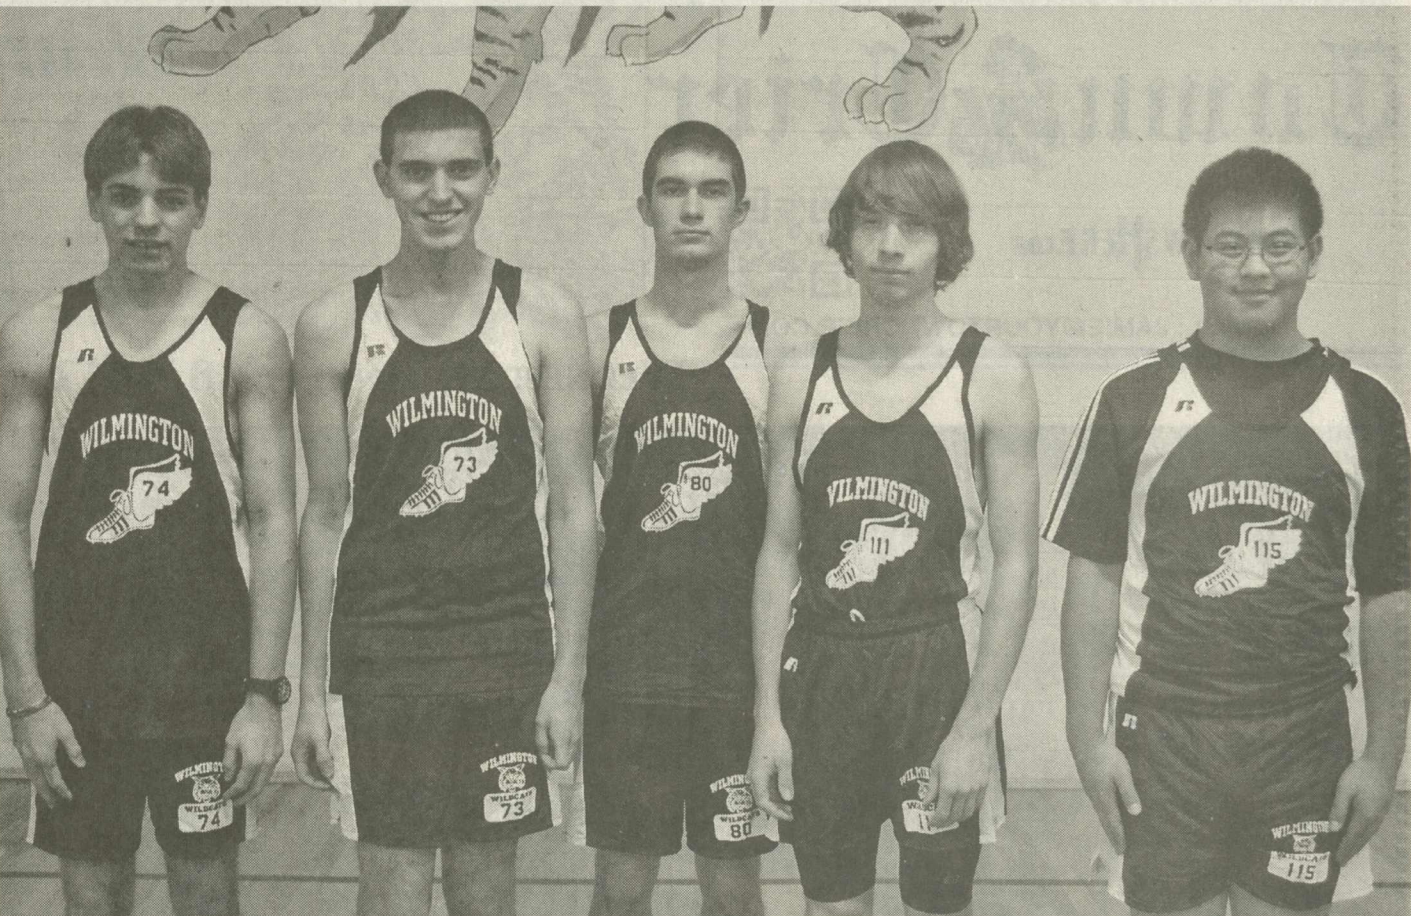

WRESTLING

Senior Alex Furlong continued his torrid wrestling season by taking the 195-pound weight class championship title during the 23rd annual Mount Anthony Union High School tournament held in Bennington, Vermont this past weekend. Furlong finished 3-0 on the day to improve to 22-2 on the season, which includes his two losses by one point each.

"Alex has another great tournament and he's just having such a great, great year for us," said head coach Mike Pimental.

Wilmington finished in 7th place as a team out of 17 teams - certainly a remarkable achievement considering how the everyday line-up being so young and the team's injury bug.

"We still didn't have Cody Halliday and I think if we had him we could have easily been bumped up to third or fourth place," said Pimental. "But I thought taking seventh place certainly was good for what the tournament was - we brought the entire team and everyone who wrestled I think had at least one win."

Besides Furlong, John Ho finished third and James Hill finished fourth, out of the heavyweight division.

"At the end of last year's season, John started to get his feet underneath him and really came on strong," said Pimental. "It's taking him a bit to get back to that same form, but this weekend he looked awesome. He showed his true colors and I think if he continues to wrestle this way, he'll be able to really put everything together and have a huge second half for us.

"And James Hill is brand new to us. He's a really big freshman and we're hoping he can take this success and blossom."

This is the 17th straight year that Wilmington has participated in this tournament. The host, Mount Anthony, won the tournament for the 22nd time in the 23-years of hosting the tour-namment which features teams from New York, Rhode Island and Vermont. Mount Anthony is where Pimental graduated from, and where he captured a state championship title back during his high school days.

"We had a great time," he said. "The kids were so well behaved and it was just another successful trip for the entire program. It was great to be able to take the team to where I wrestled, and to see what Mount Anthony has accomplished as a team and we're hoping that we can follow that someday."

GIRLS HOCKEY

While the Wrestling team took a trip to Vermont this past weekend, the WHS Girls Hockey team took its annual trip to Martha's Vineyard and came away with a 4-1 win over Peabody before falling to Scituate 2-0 in the championship game of the tournament bracket.

"This was the eleventh year that we had gone to Martha's Vineyard and let me tell you we just had a ball," said head coach Joe McMahon. "This trip was exactly what this team needed. We had so much fun, the girls were excellent and so were the parents. There's two people who work in the hockey rink office, a husband and wife, and they said to me that when they retire, they want to move to Wilmington because the people are so nice. I think that says a lot about the girls on this team."

In the team's first game against Peabody, Chloe Castellano, Shelby McHugh, Deanna Mallett and Lauren Fitch scored single goals, while, Ashley Michaels, who was recently added as a team's captain, Colleen Good and Julie Jewkes (2) picked up the assists. Bridget Santos made 11 saves to earn the victory in the net.

In the loss to Scituate, Wilmington couldn't find the back of the net and were out-shot 18-12. McHugh, who skated out in the first game, was the team's goalie and she turned away 16 shots.

GIRLS HOOP

The Wilmington High School Girls Basketball team got back on the winning track with a 60-56 victory over Wakefield played Friday night on the road. Senior guard Emily Crannell paced the Wildcats offense with 21 points, while she was helped out by Alex Derian and Christa Brent, who both had productive games. Derian finished with six points, four assists and two defensive steals, while, Brent had seven points, six assists and two steals.

The Wildcats are now 7-3 overall and need just three more wins to qualify for state tournament play once again.

Rams Hockey team battles Falcons until the end

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech Boys Hockey team went 0-1-1 this past week in their two non-league games, but their performance in those two games against a pair of quality opponents bodes very well for them as they head into their CAC schedule beginning this week.

The Rams suffered a hard fought 6-5 loss to Danvers last Thursday night at the Hallenborg Pavilion in Billerica and followed that up with a 2-2 tie against North Quincy on Monday afternoon.

The 0-1-1 week leaves the Rams with a 3-3-1 record as they prepare to begin their league schedule in earnest this week. Shawsheen is 1-0 in the CAC on the season with their lone game resulting in a 5-2 win over previously undefeated Rockport.

While Shawsheen coach Chuck Baker and his team would obviously have much preferred to come away with victories in their two non-league games this week, he was excited with how his team competed against a pair of quality opponents.

"I was happy with the effort, but I wish we got at least one win," Baker said. "We were so close against two very good teams."

Indeed the Rams were very close, holding third period leads in both games. But they were unable to hold on to those leads and the week went from being spectacular for its results to simply satisfying for its strong efforts.

Against Danvers the Rams took a 5-4 lead at the 8:52 mark of the third period on a goal by senior Mike DiGiorgio of Tewksbury, but they were unable to hold on as Danvers tied the game 40 seconds later and scored the game winner at the 11:47 mark.

Against North Quincy the Rams led 2-1 in the third period when senior Joe Sodergren of Tewksbury scored just 51 seconds into the frame, but North Quincy got the equalizer with 7:00 left and Shawsheen had to settle for just one point.

As discouraging as it was to lose two third period leads, Baker is not concerned it will be the start of a trend for his team.

"It is something we will build on. Both games were like tournament play and we have plenty of time to fix some things," Baker said. "The team is playing hard and we are now pretty battle tested and we are only halfway through January. There is a lot of hockey left."

Which likely means there is a lot more scoring to be done for Sodergren, DiGiorgio and fellow first linemate Tom Price. Sodergren had a hat trick against Danvers while all three players each had two points against North Quincy.

The top line has been as outstanding as they were expected to be, but Baker would also like to see a bit more scoring punch from the rest of his team as well.

"I am still waiting for some kids to step up," Baker said. "But we are taking baby steps and I know I have the kids playing aggressive and moving their feet which we lacked in some earlier games. We just need some kids to regain their confidence and we will be in good shape."

After having performed so well in their non-league games, Baker and his team are eager to begin play in the CAC and Baker is confident his team will be ready to pursue their fifth straight CAC title.

"We have only played two two division three teams, so I feel we are ready," Baker said. "But we cannot take anyone lightly as we have already seen,"

Shawsheen Tech Girls-Boys Hoop

Lady Rams pick up eighth victory

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Girls Basketball team picked up two more wins this past week, improving their record on the season to 8-1 overall and 5-1 in the CAC Upper Division. While the wins were very impressive with triumphs over Greater Lawrence by a score of 71-31 on the road last Friday night and 54-30 over Lynn Tech at home on Tuesday night, Shawsheen coach Dick Barriss was actually hoping for some stiffer competition from the Lady Rams opponents.

In the win over Lynn Tech on Tuesday, the Lady Rams led 32-6 at the half before letting up quite a bit in the second half. They had actually begun to let up late in the first quarter, dropping out of their press defense and into a zone.

And in the win over Greater Lawrence, Shawsheen led 41-16 at the half, having once again let up on their defense late in the first quarter.

"It's tough because it really does nothing for us," Barriss said. "No matter how you look at it, it does not help us get any better. Everybody gets to play, which is nice, but overall, it doesn't really help us at all."

Barriss doesn't mean to sound like he is bragging about how great his team is. In fact, it is just the opposite. Because the Lady Rams are able to coast so easily in many of these games, it is difficult to tell just how good his team is as they prepare for non-league games during the season and for post-season play.

"It is a big step up in competition," Barriss said. "It is hard to tell how good we will be against those teams."

Shawsheen has been getting several outstanding performances from many of their players in the recent lopsided wins. Against Lynn Tech, Shawsheen was led by 13 points by junior Ari Medeiros of Tewksbury and eight from sophomore Rachael Fahey. Jamie Mahoney led the Lady Rams with eight rebounds.

Against Greater Lawrence Mahoney poured in ten points, while Shawsheen was led by freshman Emily Irwin's eleven points. Fahey had another strong game with eight points and ten rebounds, while Charlotte Ardini had seven and senior captain Kimberly Barriss had seven assists.

Fahey's efforts have been

Fahey continues to dominate

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Wilmington's Amy Fahey remained red hot for the Fitchburg State women's basketball team as she scored 12 points and grabbed nine rebounds in a 74-47 win over Fisher College last Wednesday.

Fahey, a sophomore forward, shot 6-for-10 from the field. Five of her boards were on the offensive end and she also chipped in three assists and a steal. She followed up that performance with an even better one later in the week, scoring 18 points to go along with eight rebounds, four assists and three steals in a 75-72 win over Framingham State on Saturday.

The Wilmington High graduate has been an absolute monster this season for Fitchburg State. She is averaging 24.2 points and 9.5 rebounds per game for the Falcons and is her team's leading scorer by almost 13 points.

Fitchburg State has only dropped one game this season and boasts a record of 13-1. They played host to Worcester State on Tuesday night, and results were not available.

Tewksbury's Corey Ryser scored a game-high 18 points for the Bridgewater State University men's basketball team in a 71-53 victory over UMass Boston on Thursday night.

Ryser, a senior guard, shot 8-for-13 from the field, including a perfect 2-for-2 from behind the three-point line. He scored 14 of his points in the first half and had an assist and a steal in the game.

Ryser started in all 13 of his team's games this season and is averaging 14.2 points per game, which is second on the Bears. He is shooting better than 91 percent from the free throw line.

Bridgewater State has won three out of its last four games and has a record of 6-7.

Danielle DePierro had 11 points and three steals to help lead the UMass Lowell women's basketball team to a 96-73 victory over Mercy College on Monday afternoon.

DePierro, a sophomore guard from Tewksbury, started for the River Hawks and shot 4-for-9 from the field and 3-for-5 from the free throw line. She had two rebounds and two assists as well.

"(Brianna Calver) and Danielle are playing well at both ends and being consistent," said head coach Sarah Behn. "They know when Bianca (Simmons) drives, people channel on her so they know that she can kick it to them. We're getting some balanced scoring out of our starting five."

The win was UML's second in three games. The River Hawks boast a record of 6-10 and played host to Le Moyne on Tuesday. Results were unavailable as of press time.

Evan White's run of dominance continued as the UMass Lowell junior won his third 400 meter title of the young track season at the Tufts Invitational on Saturday afternoon.

The Tewksbury native won with a time of 48.95. The win was his third title in only four meets this season.

Tewksbury's Richard Kirby, a freshman, ran the second leg for his school's 4x800 team, which placed third. He ran his leg at 2:08.7. On the women's side, Tewksbury sophomore Karie Judge finished in seventh place in the 600 meters with a time of 1:41.73.

Tewksbury's Leanne Tucker and the Villanova University women's track team returned to action last Friday night at the NYC Gotham Cup in New York City.

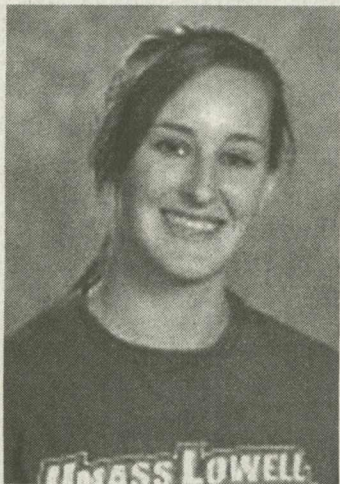

Tucker, a freshman, finished in sixth place in the 800 meters with a time of 2:16.61. This time is almost four seconds faster than her best collegiate time, which occurred in her debut race. She finished first in that race, the Jack Pyrah Invitational, with a time of 2:20.32.

Tewksbury senior Kristen Judge finished in fourth place in the high jump for the University of Pennsylvania women's track team at the NYRR Saturday Night at the Armory in New York City.

Judge cleared 1.66 meters (5 feet, 5 1/4 inches) to earn fourth place. The Quakers placed third overall behind UConn and Hampton University. Like Tucker, Judge and the Quakers will compete in the Albany Great Dane Invitational on Saturday.

Tewksbury's John Cahalane helped set up the game-winning goal for the Worcester State men's hockey team in a 1-0 triumph last week against Nichols College in the inaugural Worcester City Shootout.

Cahalane, a senior forward, dished out the assist in the first period while the Lancers were short-handed. He has scored three goals

Stearns captures 100th win for Rams

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

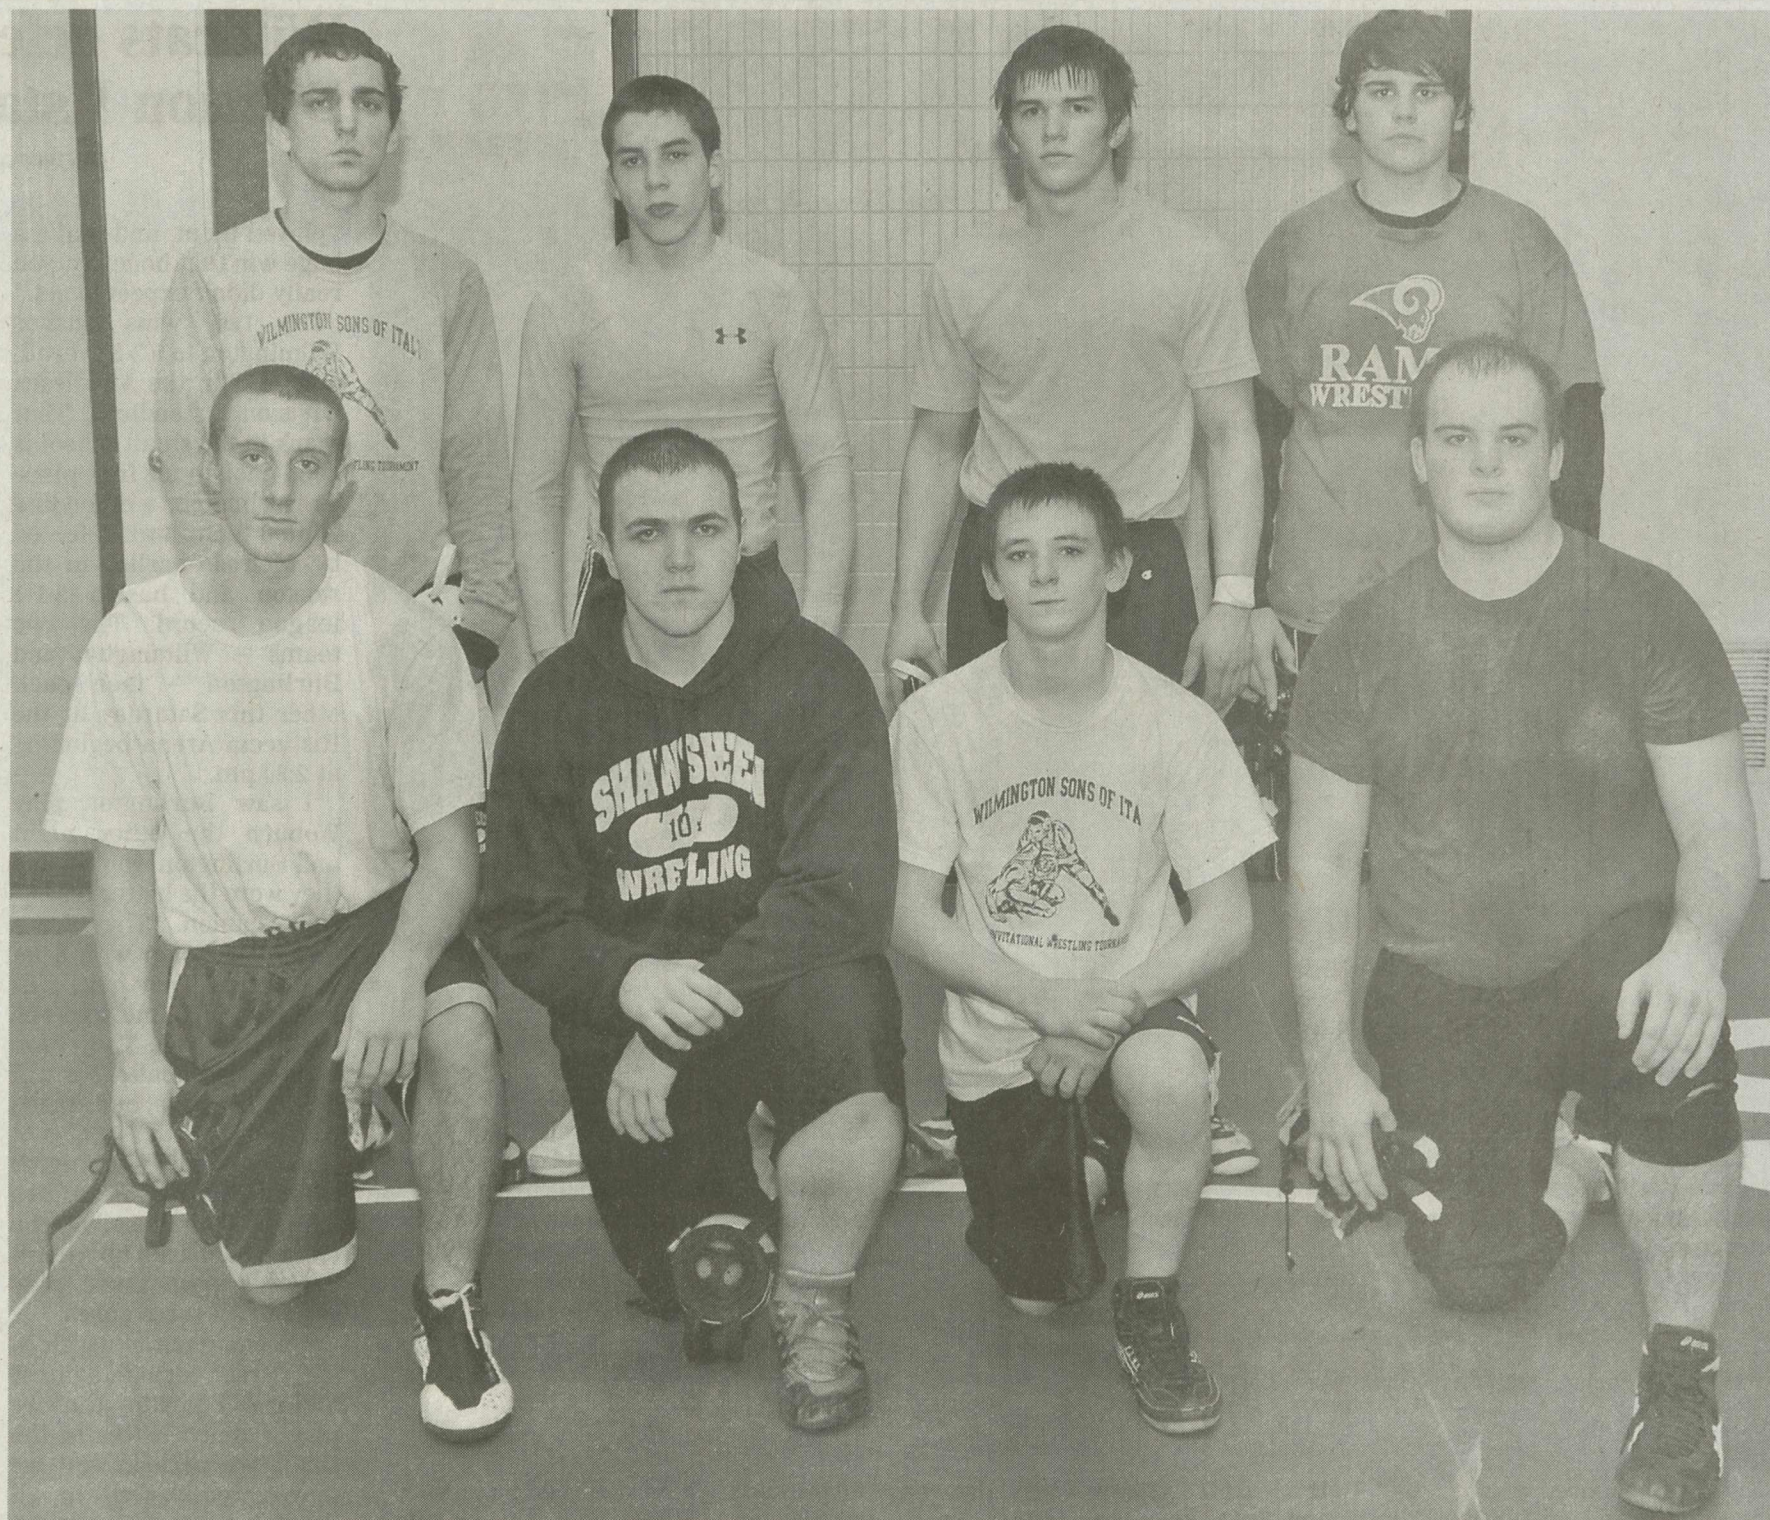

The Shawsheen Tech Wrestling team had a busy week for themselves and it was a week filled with both personal milestones for a pair of Rams stars as well as more outstanding team efforts.

The Rams had seven matches during the week and were an impressive 5-2 in those contests. The wins included a 37-36 thriller over Dracut last Wednesday which the Rams won in the final seconds of the last match of the evening as well as a sweep of a quad meet on Saturday over Peabody (54-18), Reading (57-6) and CAC rival Greater Lawrence (33-27).

The Rams had a bit of rough ending to the week, going 1-2 in a quad meet against St. John's Prep, West Springfield and Josiah Quincy on Monday. The Rams fell to St. John's Prep 43-15 and West Springfield 35-26 while beating Josiah Quincy 29-15.

The big news of the day for the Rams, however, was that a pair of their wrestlers reached an incredible milestone (126 pounds) as both senior Jonathan Stearns of Wilmington and junior Devonn Pratt (138) earned the 100th win of their careers as each went 3-0 on the day.

"That's a great accomplishment for both of those guys," Shawsheen coach Mark Donovan said. "They are two kids who work really hard for us every day in practice so it is great to see them do that."

The most exciting match of the week, and undoubtedly the most exciting match of the season came against Dracut on Wednesday. The Rams entered the final match of the day at 120 pounds trailing by three points and needing sophomore Matt Mann of Wilmington to not only win, but to win by either pin or technical fall in order to secure the victory.

In a dramatic turn of events, Mann got the points he needed to win by technical fall with just three seconds left in the match, delivering the victory to the Rams.

"That was the most exciting match we have had all season," Donovan said. "That's a great win for Matt. He has come out of nowhere for us this year. He was a backup for us last year, but he is doing very well for us this year."

The only reason they were even in any position to win was that junior Dylan Kenny had come up with a clutch victory by pin at 113 pounds in the previous match, setting up Mann for his heroics. "That was a huge win for us too," Donovan said.

"Without that, the last match wouldn't have meant anything, so that was a great effort by Dylan too."

In the sweep of the quad meet over Greater Lawrence, Peabody and Reading, the Rams had several outstanding performances, including a 3-0 day from senior captain Frank Murray of Tewksbury at 132 pounds and two victories by pin for freshman Chris Sorenson at 170 pounds.

"Frank has worked very hard for us all year and it is great to see him come back and do so well," Donovan said. "And Sorenson is still just learning the sport, but he is getting better every day and is going to be really good for us."

key for Shawsheen as she has stepped in and played important minutes as centers Stephanie Champoux and Julie Russell recover from injuries.

"Rachel has stepped up and played well filling in for Julie and Stephanie," Barriss said. "She is moving in the right direction and I think she could be a center for us in the future. She has certainly made it so we will have to take a long hard look at her in years to come."

Irwin, Mahoney and back-up point guard Shannell Nardone, who had five assists in the win over Greater Lawrence have all impressed Barriss with their play as of late.

"Both Emily and Jamie have been doing a good job for us. Emily is just a freshman and she is still learning so she will have some growing pains, but she is doing a good job for us," Barriss said. "Jamie has a good jump shot. She has struggled at times with her rebounding, but she did a nice job with that tonight (against Lynn Tech)."

Shawsheen will be back in action on Sunday afternoon against non-league rival Wayland, and Barriss is looking forward to the challenge for his team.

"Win, lose or draw, we are just looking forward to the competition to see how we can do against some of these better teams," Barriss said. "It will be good to see where we stand against them."

BOYS HOOP

The Shawsheen Boys Basketball team dropped a tough 56-47 loss to CAC Upper Division rival Greater Lawrence last Friday night, dropping their record on the season to 4-5 overall.

The Rams were led in the loss by an outstanding effort by sophomore forward Jared Pinette who had 15 points and nine rebounds, along with junior guard Zach Amidon who chipped in with 12 points, including a trio of three pointers.

Shawsheen coach Greg Bendel was pleased with the contribution the Rams got from Amidon, who came off the bench to score 10 of his 12 points in the second half.

"Zach came off the bench and gave us a real offensive spark in the second half," Bendel said. "I've been really impressed with the contributions he's been giving us lately."

While Amidon had a very good second half, overall the frame was a tough one for the Rams, who saw a 24-22 halftime lead turn into a tough defeat. Bendel gave credit to Greater Lawrence and their coaching staff for a hard earned victory.

"We have to tip our hats to the Reggies they shut us down offensively, but rebounded us and they are obviously well coached," Bendel said. "Coach Dan Habib is a guy I have known for a number of years now and he is someone that I really respect as a coach. They had the perfect game plan and they executed it very well."

played them, and that's a huge win that honestly, you really didn't expect to get."

The two wins pushes Wilmington to 5-2-3 overall, and 3-0-1 in the Middlesex Division 2 standings. That mark in the small school is good enough for first place as Burlington, a defending Elite 8 team, was defeated by Melrose earlier in the season and has a 2-1-1 league record. The two teams -- Wilmington and Burlington -- face each other this Saturday at the Ristuccia Arena beginning at 2:30 pm.

"I saw Burlington play Woburn the other night and Burlington won 3-0 and they were the better team," said Scanlon. "They are a real quick team with a lot of balance. They have kids on their third line who can really hurt you. They have a real good goalie. We will definitely have our hands full."

In order for Wilmington to pull out a point or two against the Devils, the team has to keep up what it did this past week, play solid in all three zones.

"We came out sluggish in the first period against Melrose, but after that we played much better in the final two periods and we played really well in all three periods against Wakefield," said Scanlon. "I thought the Wakefield game was one of our better games of the season. We played very strong in all three zones, our defensive coverage was very good and we played very disciplined, not taking any foolish penalties."

Junior Cam Owens led the offensively in the win over Wakefield with a goal and two assists. His goal came with four seconds left in the first period which seemed to really give Wilmington a lot of momentum the rest of the game. Dalton Rolli and Jake Rogers scored the other goals, while Brendan McDonough contributed with an assist. Goaltender Drew Foley made all 22 saves for the shut out.

"Our first line was really good that night and so was Drew in the net," said Scanlon. "He did a great job of gathering the rebounds."

In the 6-3 win over Melrose, Wilmington was able to come through with the victory by finding the back of the net three times in the final period. Rolli and Rogers scored two goals each and Brendan McDonough and Frank Cerbone added the others. Owens dished out four assists, Brian Pickett added two helpers and Anthony Castellano, Trevor Foley and Adam Siegel had one each.

Cam Neely Skate Challenge at FMC Arena

The Boston Bruins Foundation and the Cam Neely Foundation for Cancer Care are holding their third Annual "Neely Sk8 Challenge" hosted at FMC Ice Sports arenas. Skaters can create their very own, personalized fundraising page to make a pledge and follow their fundraising progress. This incredible event raises funds for children and families who are battling cancer. Last year the "Neely Sk8 Challenge" raised over $120,000, and this year they're looking for you to help exceed that mark. Register now to skate at one of the five participating FMC arenas. Not only will you skate to help out a great cause, but you will be able to win excellent prizes.

This winter the Department of Conservation and Recreation will be hosting accessible ice skating events at three FMC arenas. Participants may wear traditional skates, or they may opt to take advantage of experiencing gliding across the rink in an ice sled or in an electric or manual wheelchair. Whichever you choose, come on down and enjoy this spin on public skating.

FMC Ice Sports Natick skaters rang in the New Year with their annual New Year's Day Exhibition at the William L. Chase Arena. An enthusiastic audience watched thirty-five soloists showcase their skills from competitive programs to seasonal routines set to a variety of holiday music. Members of the Ice Dance Class performed a group Cha-Cha and the Magic Edge, Dazzling Edge and Cutting Edge synchronized skating teams debuted their competitive programs as they prepare for the upcoming season.

"We had so much fun in class working on the Cha-Cha," said Sophia Verna. "I really like skating with my friends." The Skating Club of Natick partnered with the synchronized teams to provide refreshments for the event.

Squirt 2's compete in three tough games

Over the long weekend provided by the Martin Luther King, Jr. Holiday, the Wilmington Youth Hockey Association Squirt 2 team played three games against Valley League rivals.

First up was Andover at the Merrimack College Lawler Arena on Saturday morning. The Wildcats have had some shootouts with Andover this year, and Saturday was another high scoring affair. Cameron Banks put Wilmington ahead in the first period, scoring in the fourth minute, and again in the eighth minute.

After Andover scored their first goal, the final two minutes of the period saw three more goals. First, Jared Russell put the Wildcats up 3-1, but Andover responded on the next shift to close the gap. Then with only seconds remaining, Andover tied the score at three.

The second period continued to be all about offense as Andover surged to the lead, only to see Banks score again to even things at four. But late in the period Andover took two quick tallies to carry a 6-4 lead to the final period.

Perhaps inspired by a brief pep talk between periods, the Wilmington defense clamped down in the third, and goalie Max Churchill smothered anything that got as far as the net. Provided with solid support at the blue line, the Wildcat forwards stormed the offensive zone. With four different players scoring, Wilmington turned a two goal deficit to a two goal lead. Justin Crowley started the comeback with an early goal (assist to Banks), and just thirty seconds later Taylor Padulsky scored with an assist from Anthony Bowker. Jared Russell put Wilmington ahead with a score about halfway through the final period, and Chris Bernazani flipped in the final goal with two minutes remaining.

The 8-6 final indicated some defensive lapses, but also a tenacity to earn the come from behind win.

Alex Fitzler took over in net on Sunday morning at Breakaway Ice Center in Tewksbury, as the Wildcats faced Nashua. With Nicholas Farrell out of the lineup (get well soon!) the remaining defensive rotation stepped up to fill the gap. John Spina was again impressive in shutting down the opposition attack, while Joseph Hansen and Joseph Hartzell each earned assists from the blue line with smart plays to move the puck to the offensive zone.

Nashua has been a tough opponent this season, and took the early lead, but Wilmington carried the confidence from their comeback victory against Andover. Cameron Banks and Chris Bernazani each contributed two goals and one assist, with Jared Russell chipping in a goal and an assist. Anthony Bowker had the game winning goal though, scoring on the power play early in the third period.

Nashua scored a controversial goal with only six seconds remaining, but the 6-3 final reflected the Wildcats' improved focus and a more balanced offense.

Finally, on Monday morning the Wildcats had a rematch with Andover at the Phillips Academy Rink. The starting forward line of Morgan Vigeant, Jillian Fisher, and Connor Hill put the pressure on early and set the table for the Wildcats to wear down Andover and take control the game. Zach Smith paired on defense with a rotation of forwards helping out along the blue line and played a steady game as Wilmington limited the Andover offense.

The first period had Cameron Banks scoring early for Wilmington, and Andover scoring late to tie the game at one all after one period. In the second period, Chris Bernazani put the Wildcats ahead for good with a goal at the nine minute mark.

After the teams switched ends of the ice for the third period, Cameron Banks exploded for three quick goals. After scoring the third Wilmington goal, the Wildcats took the next face off into the offensive zone where defenseman Joseph Hartzell put the puck in deep for left wing Chris Bernazani to quickly pass out front for Banks to tap in a second goal in just fifteen seconds. It took only another few ticks of the clock for Banks to grab a third goal in a single shift against the beleaguered Andover goalie.

At the far end of ice, Max Churchill stood tall for Wilmington blocking all the shots he could see, and a few that he was screened from. Andover piled in a late score on a goal front scrum, but that was all the daylight they would see as the Wildcats contained the play in the offensive zone to finish out the 5-2 win.

Wakefield resident sets world records in drag racing association

Frank Capone Jr. originally of Stoneham succeeds in All Harley Drag Racing Association

By RYAN LAROCHE

With so many sports in America, some don't make it to every part of the country. One such sport that is popular down south, but hasn't yet reached New England is motorcycle drag racing. However, that doesn't stop New Englanders from taking part.

One local resident, Frank Capone Jr., 44, races in the All Harley Drag Racing Association (AHDRA) which runs in New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina, and Texas, and has been around for 35 years.

The sport hasn't caught on up here yet and that could be because, as Capone noted, "we tend to race at the same time as motorcycle rallies," of which there aren't many in this area.

Fortunately, when Capone brought his bike to Gannos Machine in Pelham, NH to have work done he was informed about the AHDRA. He always wanted to race cars and figured this was a good alternative.

Capone, who grew up in Stoneham but now resides in Wakefield and owns Capone Landscape Inc., and Capone Racing Enterprises in Wakefield, bought his first Harley 12 years ago and taught himself how to ride at age 15. He said his father being into bikes helped spur on his passion for motorcycles that he has today.

His father, though a motorcycle enthusiast, prefers Japanese bikes to Harleys. Capone said that the two used to ride together, but recently his father gave up riding. The last trip they took was a two-hour bike ride to New Hampshire in the rain, an experience that the Wakefield resident called interesting.

His parents, though supportive, haven't come to watch any of his races. He does keep in constant contact with them regarding the results, but Capone said his mom just can't watch.

In 2009, Capone officially turned pro after starting in 2005. He races in the pros division where riders race heads up against one another. In the other division, the sportsman division, riders race against the clock.

Even though the former Stoneham native is fairly young to the sport, he's had two great years. Two years ago he won Pro Rookie of the Year and last season he broke two records (both in the Pro Capone to S-4

"CONTRABAND" A DECENT FILM

"CONTRABAND" STARS MARK WAHLBERG in a familiar role - the reformed tough guy who must get "back into the game" to protect those he loves. It isn't great filmmaking, but with its cast, a few clever scenes, and a good performance from Wahlberg, it is good.

"CONTRABAND"
GRADE: **

"Contraband" is a decent heist/action thriller film starring Mark Wahlberg in a familiar role - the reformed tough guy who must get 'back into the game' to protect those he loves. And of course, the guy he plays has killer abs.

The plot plays like this: Chris Farraday (Mark Wahlberg) long ago abandoned his life of crime, but after his brother-in-law, Andy (Caleb Landry Jones), botches a drug deal for his ruthless boss, Tim Briggs (Giovanni Ribisi), Chris is forced back into doing what he does best - running contraband - to settle Andy's debt.

Chris is a legendary smuggler and quickly assembles a crew with the help of his best friend, Sebastian (Ben Foster), for one final run to Panama and back, hoping to return with millions in counterfeit bills. Things quickly fall apart and with only hours to reach the cash, Chris must use his rusty skills to successfully navigate a treacherous criminal network of brutal drug lords, cops and hit men before his wife, Kate (Kate Beckinsale), and sons become their target.

"Contraband" has aspirations toward becoming a deeper film, with a cast that includes Ben Foster, Giovanni Ribisi, Diego Luna and J.K. Simmons. It's a large crew of characters, good guys and bad guys and bad guys pretending to be good guys.

Chris is lured into the cliché "one last job" when his young brother-in-law (Caleb Landry Jones) screws up a shipment of drugs, tossing them overboard when his ship is boarded. The local drug kingpin, Tim Briggs, played by Ribisi, has a flair for violence. He makes it clear that unless Chris covers the loss, his family will be targeted.

Kate Beckinsale plays Chris' wife, Kate, whose job is to look pretty and vulnerable, and try to talk Chris out of going back to crime.

Instead of looking to the police for help, she turns to Chris' best friend Sebastian. A former partner in crime, Sebastian sets up Chris' job but doesn't accompany him on the trip to Panama.

Just to show the audience what a good bad guy Chris is, the film won't let him smuggle drugs to pay back Briggs - instead he brings in counterfeit dollar bills.

When you apply almost any level of serious contemplation to it, "Contraband" isn't a particularly good movie. Its plot twists telegraph themselves early on, and every performer other than Wahlberg is only afforded a few scenes to flesh out their characters.

But it's hard not to have fun while you watch it. The action is all over the place, and well-shot. J.K. Simmons is very good as the ship's captain, who's not really upset that a smuggler like Chris is running an operation on his boat, just that he wasn't given a piece of the action.

"Contraband" isn't great filmmaking, but with its cast, a few clever scenes and a good performance from Wahlberg, it is good.

"THE DESCENDANTS"
GRADE: ***

George Clooney is a favorite to be nominated for an Oscar for his role in this new film from Alexander Payne, the creator of the Oscar-winning Sideways.

Set in Hawaii, "The Descendants" is a sometimes humorous, sometimes tragic journey for Matt King (Clooney), an indifferent husband and father of two girls, who is forced to re-examine his past and embrace his future when his wife suffers a boating accident off of Waikiki. The event leads to a new effort to connect with his young daughters while Matt wrestles with a decision to sell the family's land handed down from Hawaiian royalty and missionaries.

King is a Hawaiian real-estate lawyer descended from a long line of Hawaiians with a lineage that includes Hawaiian royalty. It's through his family lineage that he has become trustee of a very valuable piece of unspoiled beachfront land on Kauai. Since Matt has always lived off his earnings and not relied on his trust fund, he has no real need or desire to sell the land. The trust is set to expire in a few years, however, and Matt's relatives have plans to sell the land to a developer.

Though it hangs over the film and does become a main part of the story, the land is a side issue when it comes to the plot. The story revolves more around the fact that his wife, Elizabeth (Patricia Hastie), was in a boating accident that has left her in a coma, which

Matt learns is not going to change. It's not a question of whether she's going to die, but when, and he is left to honor her living will and 'pull the plug' as they say. The situation was already difficult, since it left Matt in charge of 10-year-old Scottie (Amara Miller), a girl he doesn't understand, as well as her away-at-school 17-year-old sister, Alex (Shailene Woodley), whom he brings home to say goodbye to her mother - and help him with her sister.

Alex wants no part of a goodbye to her mom though, probably because she's the one person in the family who knew that Elizabeth had been cheating on her father. It's through her that Matt learns of his dying wife's cheating ways - and that sets the film off in another direction, where Matt is determined to learn the identity of his wife's lover and confront him.

The most remarkable thing about the film is that it takes a cliché, the distant, workaholic dad and husband, and makes it seem fresh. Thanks to Clooney and the rest of the cast's excellent performances, The Descendants is a human, believable and very moving film.

"WE BOUGHT A ZOO"
GRADE: ***

Filmmakers sometimes shy away from focusing on kids and animals in films because they are labeled unpredictable.

But, if they are used wisely and are on top of their game, a strong performance can save what would otherwise be a forgettable film.

Director Cameron Crowe manages to get the best out of both the child and animal actors he showcases in his latest film, "We Bought A Zoo", and in the process takes what could have been a disaster and turns it into a workable film.

Matt Damon stars as journalist Benjamin Mee, whose book provides the basis for the film. Mee once worked as a reporter chasing hurricanes and interviewing heads of state. That career screeches to a halt when the news business starts downsizing and his beloved wife dies unexpectedly.

Benjamin's teenage son Dylan (Colin Ford) is expelled from school for repeated behavioral problems, and the strain of taking care of Dylan and eight-year-old daughter Rosie (Maggie Elizabeth Jones) makes it hard for him to concentrate on new writing projects.

Benjamin decides moving from Los Angeles to rural California might help his family, but their dream house comes with some heavy baggage. It's part of an exotic animal park that has fallen into disrepair.

By including how challenging it is to keep zoos going, Crowe makes the film more believable. You basically know how things turn out going into the theater, because if Mee had failed, it's highly unlikely a movie would ever have been made of his story.

At times, "We Bought a Zoo" can be pretty manipulative when it comes to your emotions, but it does so with skill and finesse. The film is a delight from beginning to end.

PARTY ON, IN WOBURN

"After promising to work with an abutting property owner to enhance the landscaping in the area, a company received a special permit from the City Council at its most recent meeting to add 11 new loading docks at its headquarters on Cabot Road," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"A hearing on a separate request from a shoe company to lease warehouse space in the same building was continued, however, until the council's next meeting ... after a resident issued concerns about additional truck traffic."

"Peterson Party Center sought to modify a special permit granted in August allowing the company to move from Winchester into a vacant building at 36 Cabot Road...off Commerce Way, roughly behind the Woburn Mall, in a mostly commercial/industrial section of the city. Peterson Party Center rents supplies like chairs and tables to museums and similar facilities that host events."

"Zoning regulations prohibit loading docks in front of commercial buildings, but attorney Joseph Tarby, representing Peterson, said his client would add a landscaping screen in concert with Cummings Properties, an entity of which owns a building at 35 Cabot Road."

"The area will see a vast improvement once (Peterson) goes in there," said Tarby.

"In a separate hearing, Tarby told the council that Peterson intends to lease a portion of the building at 36 Cabot Road to Shoebuy.com, which is requesting a special permit for the overnight parking of commercial vehicles."

"Shoebuy.com intends to move from 31 Draper St., off Montvale Avenue in a much more residential area of East Woburn. The company sells most of its wares over the internet and is asking for four trailers..."

"Mishawum Road resident Russell Richardson asked the council to hold off granting any more special permits until a planned city-wide trucking survey is finished and the council can assess the data..."

MILESTONES IN WILMINGTON

"The Town Crier takes time at the beginning of every new year to talk to town administrators and take stock of the year ahead," notes the Wilmington "Town Crier."

According to the "Crier," Town Manager's Michael Caira's view of 2012 begins with planning and preparations for the site work for the new Wilmington High School as well as developing the artificial turf for Alumni Field and yes, even retirement.

"Foremost on Caira's mind as an objective for 2012 is to ensure that the school project remains on track..."

"On top of meeting the planning milestones, the town must also begin developing the logistical preparations surrounding the construction project. For instance, Town Meeting in 2013 will have to be held somewhere other than the high school gym, which won't be built yet and the old one will be torn down. Residents will also be informed of other logistical changes relative to parking, available gymnasium time, and so forth."

"Caira also seeks to maintain fiscal order through the budget year..."

"Caira will present his budget to Selectmen and the town January 30."

"Finally, Caira is planning his retirement for 2012, indicating only that he has not yet set a specific date for his retirement but that it will likely be in the fall..."

RE: SEARCH IN BURLINGTON

"The screening committee to assist in the search for a new town administrator was finalized ... as three residents were chosen to round out the panel," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

Eleven residents applied for positions on the committee which will work with the Collins Center at the University Massachusetts-Boston and Human Resources Director Joanne Faust in the sorting through the applicants, according to the "Chronicle."

"Chosen for the panel were Mark Delaney, retired colonel of the Massachusetts State Police; Wendy Zarrelle, vice president and comptroller at a company in Cambridge, and Melissa Robinson, who has human resources experience."

"Robinson will serve as an alternate, attending all meetings, but voting only if one of the other seven members is not present."

"The other five members of the committee are Town Accountant Paul Sagarino; School Supt. Dr. Eric Conti; Ways and Means Committee Chairman Bradford Bond; Public Works Supt. John Sanchez, and Capital Grille General Manager David Icken..."

"The town is looking to fill the position due the retirement of Robert Mercier, effective May 31, 2012..."

Proposed service cuts in Woburn include discontinuation of the Route 354 bus (Woburn to State Street) and the Route 355 bus (Mishawum Road to State Street).

The MBTA has also proposed cuts to commuter rail service out of Anderson Regional Transportation Center, including the elimination of service on Saturdays and Sundays, as well as a 10 p.m. service halt on weekdays.

If you are unable to attend the informational meeting, officials encourage that you visit the MBTA Advisory Board's website at www.mbtaadvisoryboard.org

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

Since last winning the Stanley Cup in 1975, what NHL team has lost six consecutive Stanley Cup finals? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•Senior Ashley Zielinski (Manchester, N.H.) won the 60 meter hurdles and sophomore Candace Greene (Annapolis, Md.) won the shot put to lead the UMass Lowell women's track and field team at the Tufts University Jumbo Invitational Saturday afternoon at the Gantcher Center.

UMass Lowell won four individual events and compiled 121.5 points and placed third among the 10 teams, just behind the host Jumbos (173.33) and Worcester State (146.33). Amherst College (111.33) placed fourth ahead of Keene State (93), Smith College (26.5) and Emmanuel (15).

Also capturing their events was sophomore Diamond Jones (Lowell, Mass.) in the triple jump and junior Shannon Cunningham (Foxboro, Mass.) in the 400 meters.

Zielinski cruised to the 60 meter hurdles title in 9.04 seconds - down from her preliminary time of 9.23 - and led three River Hawks in the top six places. Freshman Stephanie Muse (Chelmsford, Mass.) took fifth in 9.75 seconds while freshman Erika Shay (Waltham, Mass.) placed eighth in 9.88.

Greene captured the shot put - her third title in four meets this season - with a throw of 42 feet, 8.25 inches and led two teammates in the top five places. Junior Robin Ciriello (Salem, N.H.) threw for a distance of 37' 9.25" to place fourth while senior Bethany Staiti (Barre, Mass.) placed fifth with a toss of 36' 7.75".

Jones won the triple jump with a distance of 34' 0.75", edging out Kristen Roberts (33' 1.0") of Tufts and Naomi Bates (32' 10.25") from Amherst.

Cunningham was the sole athlete (among 18 entries) in the 400 meters to break 60 seconds as she finished first in 58.95 seconds, nearly four seconds faster than the remainder of the field. She also finished runner-up in the 200 meter dash in 26.71 seconds, leading three teammates in the top seven places.

Freshman Taelour Murphy (Salisbury, Mass.) finished third in 26.88 while freshman Alexis Kitsakos (Merrimac, Mass.) took fourth in 27.01 and freshman Shaniece Cola (Lowell, Mass.) seventh in 27.64.

Sophomore Antoinette Toussaint (Somerville, Mass.) finished second in two events. In the long jump, she leapt 16' 6.0 inches to match leader Amanda Caldarone of Worcester State, but placed in second by rule of the tiebreaker: Caldarone went 16' 5.25" on her second jump while Toussaint leapt 15' 11.75".

Toussaint was also the runner-up in the 600 meters with a time of 1:39.69, just behind Maggie Fitter of Keene State (1:38.79). SOPHOMORE KARIE JUDGE (TEWKSBURY, MASS.) placed seventh in 1:41.73 while senior Amy Delgado (Bridgewater, Mass.) was seventh in 1:42.57.

In the mile, junior Kelly Walton (Nahant, Mass.) took fourth overall and second among collegiate runners in 5:17.68.

UMass Lowell enters the Boston University Multi-Meet Invitational Thursday night at the BU Track and Tennis Center.

•Need some help with the trivia question? They aren't flying high.

•JUNIOR EVAN WHITE (TEWKSBURY, MASS.) won the 400 meter dash and sophomore Tunde Ogunleye (Fitchburg, Mass.) captured the 200 meter dash to lead the UMass Lowell men's track and field team at the Tufts Invitational Saturday at the Gantcher Center.

UMass Lowell scored 139 points and placed second behind only the host Jumbos in the field of 10 teams. Worcester State (117) took third and was followed by Amherst College (94) and Fitchburg State (49.5).

White's and Ogunleye's efforts were among a handful of solid results on the day, particularly by UMass Lowell's sprinters. White won the 400 meters - his third title in four meets this season - in 48.95 seconds and led three River Hawks in the top four places.

Sophomore Casey O'Brien (Seekonk, Mass.) took third in 51.15 seconds while sophomore Tim Regan (Sandwich, Mass.) placed fourth in 51.64.

Ogunleye won the 200 meters in 23.06 seconds, leading three UMass Lowell sprinters among the top seven places. Freshman Kevin Johnston (Amesbury, Mass.)

placed fourth in 24.06 seconds while sophomore Jeremy Cwieka (Chicopee, Mass.) took seventh in 24.31.

Johnston also finished fourth in the 60 meter dash in 7.29 seconds, up from his sixth-place showing in the preliminary race (7.34).

Four River Hawks earned runner-up honors on the day, led by sophomore David Brown (Chelmsford, Mass.) and senior Jeff Veiga (Lowell, Mass.). Brown took second in the 600 meters in 1:21.95 seconds while Veiga placed second in the mile in 4:16.41.

Sophomore Scott Boiko (Chelmsford, Mass.) was the runner-up in the 800 meters in 2:00.20, just behind Matt Melton of Amherst (2:00.00), while freshman Oluwadam Dada (Lowell, Mass.) took second in the triple jump with a distance of 40' 9.5".

Veiga was one of three River Hawks in the top seven places in the mile, along with sophomore Brian Donovan (Dracut, Mass.), who took fifth in 4:30.59, and sophomore Conor Habib (Methuen, Mass.), who placed seventh in 4:31.38.

UMass Lowell also had a strong showing in the 4X800 meter relay, placing third in 8:25.61. Sophomore Keith Lewis (Nashua, N.H.) opened with a 2:05.7 leg and was followed by FRESHMAN RICHARD KIRBY (TEWKSBURY, MASS.) in 2:08.7; sophomore Ben Pare (Lowell, Mass.) in 2:05.1; and sophomore Matt Hernon (Mansfield, Mass.) in 2:15.6.

UMass Lowell's 'B' team placed fourth in 8:35.00, led by freshman Brendan Adams (Pembroke, Mass.) in 2:05.3; Habib in 2:06.0; Donovan in 2:07.0 and freshman Cameron Kelley (Methuen, Mass.) in 2:06.2.

Kirby also placed sixth in the high jump, clearing 5' 5.25" while Lewis placed seventh in the long jump (18' 7.0"), behind freshman Patrick Greaney (Mansfield, Mass.), who took third with a distance of 20' 2.25". Kelley also placed seventh in the 1,000 meters in 2:37.99.

Freshman Devin O'Neill (Braintree, Mass.) placed third in the shot put and led two teammates among the top seven. O'Neill threw a distance of 45' 10.5" while sophomore Ryan O'Grady (Billerica, Mass.) took sixth with a toss of 42' 5.5" and freshman Andrew Ladd (Andover, Mass.) seventh with a throw of 41' 4.25".

Sophomore Kevin Peter (North Attleboro, Mass.) also did well in the throws, placing fourth in the weight throw with a distance of 49' 8.25".

Other stellar results included those of freshman Tyler Houldsworth (Exeter, N.H.), who placed third in the hurdles (8.91); and freshman Garrett King (Amesbury, Mass.) and sophomore Chanra Chhean (Lowell, Mass.), who placed fourth (11' 7.75") and sixth (10' 8.0") in the pole vault.

UMass Lowell competes in the Boston University Multi-Team Invitational Thursday night at the BU Track and Tennis Center.

Capone

From S-1

Modified class): 5.264 seconds in the 1/8 mile at 134.8mph (the old record was 5.284) and 8.338 seconds in the 1/4 mile (the old record was 8.43).

Both records were broken in Rockingham, NC at Rockingham Dragway on the last event of the season. Those record breaking runs helped propel Capone into the top five, which was his goal when the season began.

Although the record breaking margins may seem slim, Capone said that even a hundredth of a second is an eternity in drag racing.

And, unlike some records in other sports that are tainted when an athlete uses illegal substances to gain an unfair advantage, Capone pointed out that each bike is checked weekly and fines and suspensions can be levied to any owner/rider trying to cheat the system, as it were.

He said the AHDRA is a top shelf organization and that he's never crashed. Going that fast, well over 100mph and up to 135mph, it would make sense that crashing would be inevitable, but while acknowledging it happens, Capone said "it's not commonplace."

In fact, Capone went on to say that drag racing is "safer than riding in the street."

In order to race, the track must be completely dry. If there's too much wind, Capone said the track would be shorted from 1/4 mile to 1/8 mile.

Each season begins in April and ends in October. Surprisingly, while racing takes place in obvious places such as North Carolina and Texas, the AHDRA does not race in Sturgis, ND, home to the biggest motorcycle rally in the country. Capone said the AHDRA used to have a non-points race there but stopped, most likely due to the fact that there is another race a week later and the turnaround was too quick for riders to handle.

Capone has had success his first couple of years and he credits that to his team, which he calls a "good bunch of gentlemen." His team consists of Mark Godin, Richard Murray, Lorne Buchanan, and Mark Colburn.

Unlike most sports which are dominated by youth, in drag racing experience rules the day, as most riders are in their 30s and 40s. Even still, nerves can take over, as the young rider noted.

"I was so nervous I couldn't put my glove on," he said.

When he first started out back in 2005, Capone admitted to feeling like a rookie. He even felt that way turning pro in 2009.

One drawback to the sport of drag racing is how expensive it can be, which is why Capone said 90 percent of bike owners also ride. Race bikes, as opposed to street bikes, take a lot of maintenance. Capone changes his transmission every four weeks, plus makes other adjustments to keep his bike in peak racing condition.

Thankfully, besides purse money, Capone has sponsors who have helped support his team including G & G Engineering in Pelham, NH, DAS Performance in Dracut, L. Buchanan Co. in Wakefield, Gannos Machine in Pelham, NH, and Vanson Leathers in Fall River.

The Wakefield resident said he could see himself riding for another 10 years. Some riders in the AHDRA have been around as long as the association, 35 years.

Although the weather has been seasonably warm these last two months, Capone's bike is still inside for the winter and won't be taken out until the season starts this April. He said it takes all winter to get ready for the season.

He did note, though, some places like Maryland have tracks open all year round.

If there's one downfall to when the racing takes place, and where it takes place, it would be the heat, as the temperature on the track can be anywhere from 100 degrees to 135 degrees. When that's combined with all the gear riders wear (jackets, gloves, etc.) and the racing helmet, sticky probably doesn't accurately describe the situation.

The AHDRA, though fairly new, has seen much growth over the years. It started out as a club racing organization in the late 70s and continued over the years under many different names. AHDRA became the official name in 1991.

Participation levels have increased from 50-60 entries to events that now range from 250 to 450 entrants. Each event is well attended with audiences in the 5,000 to 12,500 range. Some of the bigger crowds are in North Carolina and Ohio.

Perhaps motorcycle drag racing will find itself in New England or perhaps it's just a sport more well-suited to the south. Either way, as Capone has shown, one needn't live amongst riders to be involved in the sport.

Skin cancer facts & figures

According to the Skin Cancer Foundation, one in five Americans will develop skin cancer in the course of a lifetime. Despite that prevalence, skin cancer remains the proverbial elephant in the room, a disease men and women are certainly aware of, but many prefer not to think about. Thanks to a societal trend that associates a deep tan with beauty, many men and women prefer to avoid the subject of skin cancer. However, as the following facts and figures about skin cancer attest, skin cancer is a topic that cannot be ignored and one men, women and children alike need to learn about to better reduce their risk of experiencing this largely preventable disease.

* According to the American Cancer Society, men are more likely to develop non-melanoma and melanoma skin cancers than women. In fact, the National Cancer Institute notes the majority of people diagnosed with melanoma are white men over the age of 50.

* The rate of skin cancers increases with age. However, skin cancers, and especially melanomas, can be found in younger people.

* The five-year overall survival rate for melanoma, which represents the percentage of patients who live at least five years after diagnosis, is 91 percent. This includes patients who are disease-free, in remission or under treatment.

* The five year localized survival rate for melanoma is 98 percent. Localized cancer represents cancer that, at the time of diagnosis, has not spread to other parts of the body.

* The NCI's Surveillance Epidemiology and End Results program notes that nearly 800,000 Americans are living with a history of melanoma and 13 million are living with a history of nonmelanoma skin cancer.

* Basal cell carcinoma, a slow-growing and painless type of nonmelanoma skin cancer, is the most common form of cancer in the United States. Roughly 2.8 million cases of BCC are diagnosed annually in the U.S. Though rarely fatal, BCCs can be unsightly if the cancer is allowed to grow.

* According to the NCI, between 40 and 50 percent of Americans who live to age 65 will have melanoma or non-melanoma skin cancer at least once.

* Roughly 90 percent of nonmelanoma skin cancers are associated with exposure to ultraviolet, or UV, radiation from the sun.

* According to the National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion, melanoma accounts for less than five percent of skin cancer cases, but it causes more than 75 percent of skin cancer deaths.

* The World Health Organization reports that 10 minutes in a tanning bed matches the cancer-causing effects of 10 minutes in the Mediterranean summer sun.

How to address varicose veins in men and women

Men and women alike suffer from varicose veins, which can be a cosmetic nuisance or a symptom of a serious medical condition. New varicose vein treatments are enabling individuals to live happier lives.

Varicose veins are enlarged, gnarled veins that can resemble the twisted roots of a tree. They develop when the one-way valves in veins that carry blood to the heart are faulty. Blood backs up in the veins as a result, and stretches the vein.

According to experts from Meridian Health, varicose veins are very common and affect half of all Americans ages 50 and older. But they're not just a concern for seniors. Anyone can develop varicose veins, but women are at a greater risk than men.

Varicose veins typically do not have any symptoms, except for the visual presence of deep blue or purple, bulging veins that largely occur on the legs and feet. However, aches in the legs, heavy feeling, itching around veins, or throbbing may also occur. Similar to varicose veins are spider veins, which are smaller and closer to the skin surface.

Pregnancy, age and stretching of the veins are contributors to varicose veins. Being overweight or standing for long durations of time are other contributors, as is wearing restrictive clothing.

There are a number of treatments that have been developed for varicose veins. During sclerotherapy, a solution is injected into a small or medium-sized vein to scar it and close it up. Eventually the vein will shrivel and fade. A similar procedure is done with lasers to shrink the vein without the need for needles or surgery. Catheter procedures use a heated tube inserted into the vein to collapse the vein and seal it shut. Vein stripping involves removing large veins through several small incisions. It is usually an outpatient procedure but will require a surgery.

In most cases, blood will naturally reroute to other veins in the legs after one of these procedures. Much of the blood flow in the legs is carried out by deeper veins. Individuals who undergo these procedures can usually walk directly after the surgery and full recovery is only a matter of a couple of weeks or more.

Feeling good about oneself involves being happy about what is on the inside and outside. Hiding legs and feet due to varicose veins can be embarrassing and uncomfortable, especially as the weather warms. Talk to a doctor about a recommendation to a vascular surgeon who can offer treatments for varicose veins

Foods that improve your looks

If we are what we eat, then it may be a good idea to take inventory of the foods the average person consumes on a daily basis. Although some foods are sought after for their taste, there are many foods that can be enjoyed because they have a positive effect on a person's appearance.

In the simplest sense, eating a healthy diet can help maintain a good body weight, which is one way to improve individual appearance. But more specifically, there are certain foods that have particular benefits for the skin, hair and body. The key is knowing what to eat.

Soy: Soy is rich in amino acids. This food, whether eaten as a soy bean or in the many foods made from soy, including tofu, can help the skin retain moisture and improve elasticity. Soy is also protein-rich, which can help a person feel full longer and avoid overeating.

Blueberries and cherries: These fruits are chock full of antioxidants, which studies show can reduce inflammation, a culprit of puffy, aging skin. Cherries are also a natural source of melatonin, which can help a person get a restful night's sleep - another component of looking your best.

Fresh herbs: Seasoning food with flavorful herbs instead of salt is another way to improve looks. Salt is often a culprit in water retention, which can lead to bloating and puffiness. This is also advantageous to people who need to reduce salt intake thanks to high blood pressure or other ailments.

Lime, pear, apple, and strawberry: These power fruits are high in vitamin C and other nutrients, making them an important component of a healthy diet. Furthermore, some research has suggested that certain foods, including limes, pears and apples, can whiten teeth.

Egg products: Eggs are high in vitamin A, which helps repair skin. Not getting enough vitamin A may contribute to wrinkles.

Milk products: Consuming low- or nonfat dairy products helps promote strong bones and teeth. Nothing says beautiful more than a big, bright smile. B vitamins in dairy also help with red blood cell growth, cells that are responsible for bringing oxygen to other cells. This can promote healthy, young-looking skin.

Yogurt: Yogurt contains

CERTAIN FOODS CAN WORK WONDERS on appearance and help keep the doctor away.

beneficial bacteria, which help with digestion. This can help cleanse out the system and prevent toxins from backing up in the body.

Water: Of course a person needs to stay hydrated, and water can flush the body of excess salt and toxins while also plumping the skin.

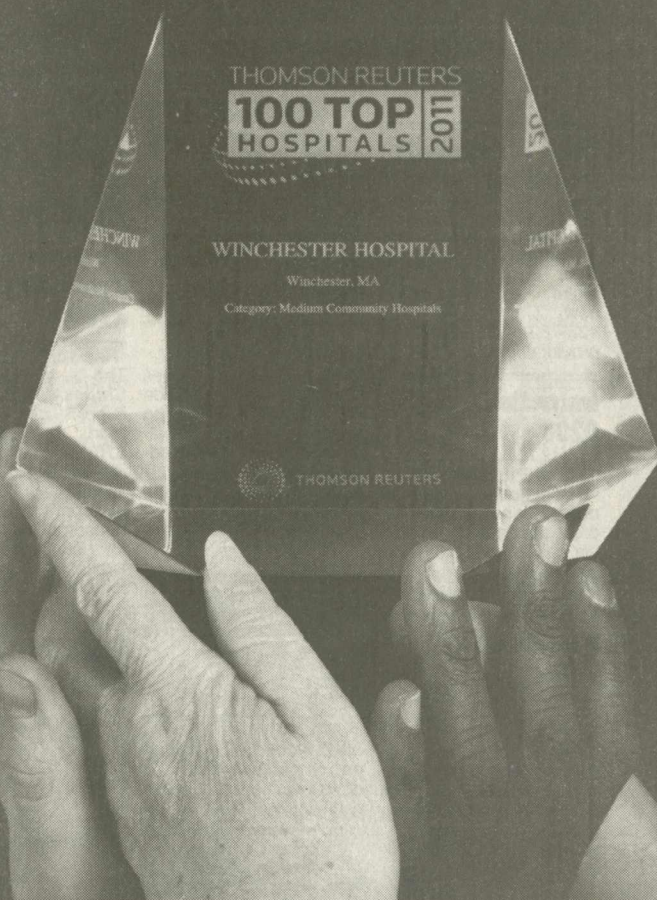

There are many nutritionally sound foods that can boost outward appearance as well.

Relay For Life of Woburn rally scheduled for Jan. 31

WOBURN - On Tuesday, January 31, the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life of Woburn will officially get underway as cancer survivors, caregivers, families, schools, companies, faith-based and civic organizations gather at the St. Anthony's Club in North Woburn at 6:00 p.m. for a kick-off rally to launch their fundraising efforts for the year.

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life is a life-changing event that gives everyone in communities across the globe a chance to celebrate the lives of people who have battled cancer, remember loved ones lost, and fight back against the disease.

People from all walks of life come together with a shared mission of furthering the American Cancer Society's vision of creating a world with less cancer and more birthdays.

At Relay, teams of people camp out at a local school, park, or fairground and take turns walking or running around a track or path. Each team is asked to have a representative on the track at all times during the event. Because cancer never sleeps, Relays are overnight events.

Teams do most of their fundraising prior to the event but some teams also hold creative fundraisers at their camp sites during Relay.

People should mark their calendar for the 2012 Relay For Life of Woburn scheduled for Friday and Saturday, May 18th-19th at Library Park Field. Anyone interested in forming a team, volunteering for the event, joining the planning committee, or just learning more about Relay For Life is encouraged to attend.

94 Relay For Life events in Massachusetts raised over $11.7 million last year enabling the American Cancer Society to impact the lives of those touched by cancer within the community by supporting vital, cutting-edge cancer research; providing cancer patients with services such as transportation to treatment, free lodging at their Hope Lodge, and round-the-clock support at their national cancer information center available at 1-800-227-2345 anytime, day or night; publishing lifesaving literature on cancer prevention, detection and tobacco control; and developing a new generation of medicines that help those battling cancer.

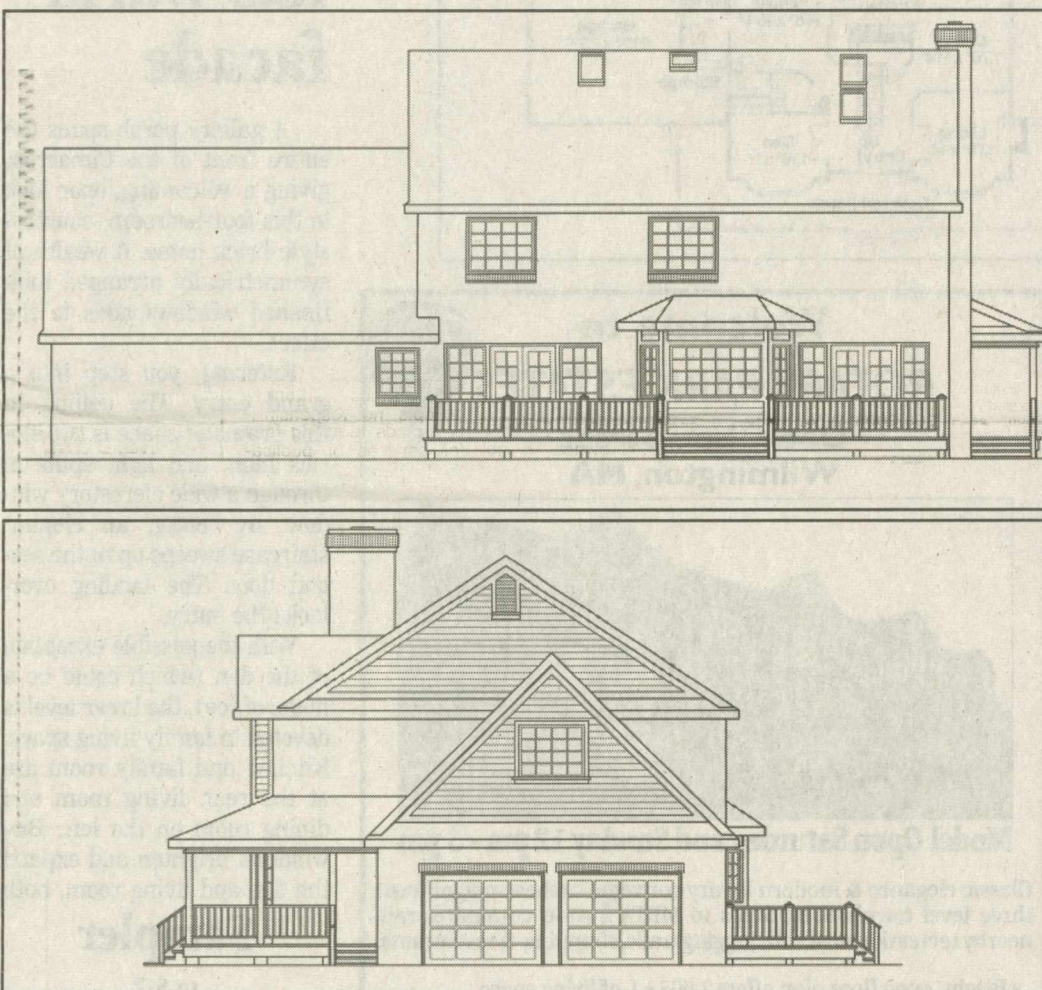

For more information about the Relay For Life of Woburn, to find out how to volunteer, or to RSVP for the Relay Kick-off, please contact Rebecca Harnois at 781-314-2678 or Rebecca.Harnois@caner.org.

More information can also be found at www.RelayForLife.org/WoburnMA.

The American Cancer Society combines an unyielding passion with nearly a century of experience to save lives and end suffering from cancer.

As a global grassroots force of more than three million volunteers, the Society fights for every birthday threatened by every cancer in the community.

The group saves lives by helping people stay well by preventing cancer or detecting it early; by helping people get well by being there for them during and after a cancer diagnosis; by finding cures through investment in groundbreaking discovery; and by fighting back by rallying lawmakers to pass laws to defeat cancer and by rallying communities worldwide to join the fight.

This Week's Sampler the Cimmaron

Country-style Cimmaron has warm facade
